

Freedom Is In Danger, Papers Told

Editors' Meeting Listens to Cautions on Plan of Lawyers to Hold Up Information

Washington, April 17 (AP)—The nation's editors were told today that proposals before the New York State Bar Assn. to ban the release of pre-trial information on criminal cases would jeopardize both freedom of the press and the right of fair trial.

Robert C. Notson, managing editor of the morning Oregonian, Portland, arranged to report on the New York proposal to the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) as the group neared the close of its three-day annual meeting here.

Notson attacked the proposal, in the current issue of the society's bulletin, as a "regression in Democratic process" which "should be resisted by every citizen who believes in free institutions, including members of the bar."

The ASNE committee on freedom of information yesterday listed the New York lawyers' resolution among recent developments in several states, which, the committee charged, threatened "the people's access to their courts."

Notson said the alleged justification for the clampdown proposal is to prevent "trial by newspaper." This, the Oregon editor declared, is a "badly overworked smear phrase, frequently the alibi for losing counsel."

Actually, Notson said, "investigations of newspapermen and their cooperation with law enforcement officers have resulted many times in the conviction of the guilty and the freeing of the innocent."

Without public knowledge of the evidence and the investigation, he added, the public cannot judge the work of its law enforcement officers, prosecutors and judges.

"Such a law as that now proposed could be very useful to arbitrary, rapid and corrupt officials in evading a proper accounting for their acts," Notson said.

Closing Agenda
On the closing-day agenda the society listed the election of a new president, shop-talk sessions ranging from slanted writing to newspaper coverage of the last Kinsey report, a luncheon speech by Robert H. Winters, Canadian minister of public works, and a dinner address by former President Herbert Hoover.

In keeping with its tradition of naming its first vice-president to the presidency, the editors were expected to elect James S. Pope of the Louisville Courier-Journal as their new president succeeding Basil L. Walters, Chicago, executive editor of the Knight newspapers.

Coleman Harwell of the Nashville Tennessean told the editors why Nashville's two dailies, the Tennessean and the Banner, have stopped printing daily television and radio listings. The answer, he said, is that daily logs cost much money and effort—outlays which properly are "the responsibility of the TV and radio stations themselves."

Land Near Pan-Am Field to Change Hands

A group headed by R. E. Craft, local realtor, has signed a contract to purchase a plot of land on Albany avenue extension just south of the Pan Am Field for commercial or industrial development. The Freeman learned today.

The plot, consisting of approximately 1,600 square feet, was owned by Barrows Motors, Inc. It was formerly the property of the Canfield Supply Company.

The plot has a frontage of more than 400 feet on Albany avenue extension, a depth of 400 feet and extends for approximately the same distance along the West Shore railroad tracks.

According to Craft, the purchasers "are a highly optimistic group about the future development of this section of the city."

H-Bomb Fears Bring Added Meaning to Easter Prayers

New York, April 17 (AP)—The first Easter of the H-bomb era will be observed around the world tomorrow with prayers for peace and salvation.

Rejoicing that Christ is risen mingles with fears that man has fashioned a weapon that could doom civilization.

The hope of men, women and children at Eastertide was that the occasion never would arise to unleash the bomb's fury.

Three Burglaries Take Place in Early Morning

No Flood Danger Seen From Storm

Heavy Rains Due to Bring Relief to Threatened Water Shortage

Heavy rains last night and early today swelled the upper Esopus creek and promised some relief for a threatened water shortage in New York City.

A total of 1.34 inches of rain fell in the Ashokan area in the 24-hour period which ended at 8 a. m. today, New York City's Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity reported.

Although water department officials believed there was little danger of flooding, the department closed its Schoharie tunnel leading into the Esopus this morning as a precautionary measure.

Creek Rise Noted
The Esopus rose about two and a half feet since early this morning with the gauge reading at Cold Brook standing at 8.54 feet at 9:30 a. m. today, compared to 5.89 feet yesterday. This morning's reading was still well below flood stage, however.

The present rainstorm relieved a previously dry April bringing the total rainfall for the month to 2.34 inches. Before the start of the rain on Friday only one inch of rain had fallen in the area since April 1 and the Ashokan Reservoir was at approximately 70 per cent of capacity.

The 70 per cent figure, while not unusual on a year-around basis, is considered low for this time of the year when the reservoir is often full and overflowing.

Conservation Studied
As late as Thursday of this week Commissioner Robert C. Ford of the New York City Department of Water Supply announced that officials were studying a program of water conservation. He said at that time that the city's water supply was dwindling because "we are using water as fast as we are collecting it."

The full benefit to the reservoir of the rain will not be known for about two days when the runoff from the watershed enters the storage basins.

Scientist's Loyalty Is Guaranteed

High Level Official Backs Oppenheimer Despite Big File as Security Risk

Washington, April 17 (AP)—A high-level member of the Eisenhower administration says he feels that atomic scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer is a "loyal American," even though "the information in his file is voluminous and makes a . . . case of security risk."

This official gave his opinion to newsmen, but stipulated that his name not be disclosed. He has had contact with the Oppenheimer case since 1948 when the pioneer physicist—credited with a leading role in development of the atomic bomb—was questioned by a congressional committee.

Oppenheimer has been barred on President Eisenhower's orders from further access to U. S. atomic secrets pending a review of his case. A special three-man Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) panel has been sitting in the case.

A "blank wall" was ordered placed between Oppenheimer and government atomic data last December after the AEC said it had received information that he was a security risk. The scientist denied this and asked for a hearing.

Up to Panel

The administration official said it is up to the panel, headed by former Secretary of the Army Gordon Gray, to decide whether Oppenheimer is a security risk. The official said he is "sure Dr. Oppenheimer will get a fair hearing." He said the physicist's file presents "an extremely difficult problem."

The overshadowing issue in the Oppenheimer case, said this official, is whether the government should hold that past associations, even if forewarned should forever rule out government employment.

"I do not believe it should," he said, and added:

"I believe each case should be considered on its merits, particularly when dealing with an ideology which during the 1930's had such an appeal among the intelligentsia and various other groups."

"If the man is not a security risk, if he is not a subject to blackmail, he should have a right to work for the government."

Stands on Evidence
"Dr. Oppenheimer, at least on the evidence I have seen, in my opinion is a loyal American. On the other hand the information in his file is voluminous and makes a 'prima facie' case of security risk."

One of the allegations against Oppenheimer is that he opposed development of the hydrogen bomb after President Truman ordered in 1950 that work on that super-weapon be pushed. Oppenheimer has asserted that he dropped his opposition as soon as Truman made his decision and that he went at the task with a will.

Rebels 800 Yards From Key Center

Communist-Led Troops Tighten Steel Ring on Dien Bien Phu as French Fight Back

Hanoi, Indochina, April 17 (AP)—Vietminh attackers tightened their steel ring around Dien Bien Phu today and stabbed to within 800 yards of the key center area of the French Union fortifications.

Garrison soldiers, backed by planes and tank and artillery fire, counterattacked against the Communist-led rebels at all points around the saucer-shaped plain.

Relentless French drives against infiltrating Vietminh units entrenched on the northern part of Dien Bien Phu's main airstrip failed yesterday to rout them.

At the airstrip, the rebels clung to dugouts just 800 yards from the bunkers where Brig. Gen. Christian De Castries, the fortress commander, has his headquarters.

The 50-year-old De Castries was hard at work directing the fortress' defenses when he received word the Paris government had officially boosted his rank from colonel to brigadier general.

In acting on his nomination to general, the French cabinet reversed an earlier decision that a promotion would be withheld until the battle for Dien Bien Phu had been decided. This had stirred up a political ruckus, with the French government denying Hanoi reports that De Castries, feeling slighted, had threatened to resign.

A French plane parachuted to De Castries the two stars which the French use to designate a brigadier general.

Enemy Digs In
Behind a curtain of mortar fire that blocked yesterday's French charges against the infiltrated Vietminh, the enemy managed to dig in deeper, fanning out from new craters they have blasted in Dien Bien Phu runways with high explosives.

Other rebel units trying to speak toward the airstrip from the northwest were knocked out, the French said. The action was described as a light mop-up.

Some French troops skirted the rebel air field positions to reinforce strongpoints on the eastern and western rims of the besieged fortress.

The French acknowledged, however, that the enemy's foothold near the heart of the fortress seriously hampered the defenders' east-west communications.

Mass Assault Expected
A mass assault, with thousands of Vietminh lunging out of the surrounding hills, still was expected as a bid for a major Vietminh victory before the east-west Geneva conference opens April 26.

Observers believe Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, the veteran Communist who commands the rebel armed forces, might be waiting now for heavier monsoon rains which would bog down French armored mobile units and hinder air attacks.

Giap was reported to have 45,000 fresh regulars and new recruits to throw into the sheets of gunfire the French can lay down from their trenches, bunkers and gun emplacements.

Four battle-hardened Vietminh divisions took part in the initial assaults, which started March 13. Their ranks were badly riddled, but, with reinforcements, the attacking force still may be eight times as large as the Dien Bien Phu garrison.

Iron Workers Are To Resume Monday

Doyle Says Thruway Job Dispute to Be Aired at Meeting

Iron workers on the New York State Thruway project who went off the job in this vicinity last Wednesday following a dispute between a welder on a bridge job and a state inspector, will return to work Monday.

Samuel Doyle, business agent for Iron Workers, Local 417, AFL, said today that the men would return to work pending a meeting to be held Tuesday or Wednesday with the Thruway Authority officials who would come here from Albany to discuss the matter.

To Adjust Differences
Doyle said he had been asked to put the men to work pending outcome of that meeting at which it was hoped an adjustment of the differences would be worked out.

The dispute, which involves about 50 men, arose when an inspector argued with a welder about his work instead of taking the matter up with the job foreman, Doyle said.

Welders must pass state tests to hold their jobs, Doyle pointed out, and he felt state inspectors should meet the same requirements.

JCC Finishes Plans For Easter Egg Hunt

Plans are all set for the first annual Easter egg hunt to be held at Forsyth Park at 3 p. m. tomorrow when 360 chocolate-covered marshmallow eggs will be hidden on the main field.

Children up to and including eight years of age are eligible to participate in the hunt, sponsored by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce. Robert Matthews is chairman of the committee in charge of the activity.

The youngster who finds most eggs will receive a live bunny. Other prizes in the form of silver dollars will be awarded to children finding six specially wrapped eggs.

Why is this? And what is ahead? Perhaps the most popular theory is this—when business was booming in the postwar years, the stock market was rolling ahead in a cautious and conservative manner. Now, when the business boom appears to be over-extended, the stock market is simply catching up with itself.

Vice President Regarded as Spokesman for Security Council on Foreign Policy

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Vice President Nixon says American troops might be used in a last-ditch effort to save Indochina. The statement brought prompt challenges from both Republican and Democratic lawmakers.

The vice president said he does not believe such action will be necessary because he thinks Indochina can be saved from the Communists by other means, but in the unlikely event that French forces withdraw, he said, this country would have to send in troops.

Nixon expressed his views in an off-the-record address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He later permitted newsmen to report his remarks on condition they not be attributed directly to him.

News stories reporting his remarks first identified him as a high administration official.

Close Connection
But he was connected with the statements from several sources. The London Times included in its story a statement that the only high administration source making a speech here yesterday was Nixon. And the Niles (Mich.) Daily Star said Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.), expressing opposition to the statement, had identified Nixon as its source.

Nixon himself was not immediately available for comment on the "leaks."

The disclosure that Nixon was the administration source in question lent added weight to the expression of policy, since he sits in with the National Security Council and at cabinet sessions.

Whether his frank discussion of the issue would have repercussions within the administration remained to be seen. Nixon has acted as spokesman for President (Continued on Page 7, Col. 5)

Full Cleanup May Bring Early Prosecutions in Scandal Check of U. S. FHA

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole says early criminal prosecutions may develop out of a "full administrative cleanup" of the scandal-shocked Federal Housing Administration (FHA). He also promises new top level firings.

Cole summoned to a strategy council this afternoon key officials of the Justice Department, the Internal Revenue Service, and his Housing and Home Finance Agency (HHFA) which has jurisdiction over the FHA.

President Eisenhower yesterday armed Cole with a directive to all federal agencies to cooperate fully with the administration's probe of alleged multi-million dollar rackets under the FHA's loan insurance program in the home repair and apartment construction fields.

Committees Ready
Two congressional committees are set to open public hearings next week in parallel investigations of the FHA, and the Eisenhower order directed federal cooperation with these groups also.

Cole announced yesterday that Burton C. Bova had been "placed on leave" after he had refused to quit as FHA general counsel. Cole said that "in the next few days we will make such other removals as are necessary to insure a free, swift, uninhibited investigation of all relevant FHA matters."

Mentioning evidence already uncovered of "irretrievable" official laxity, Cole said he expects "in a fairly short time . . . to develop cases possibly leading to prosecution and to take any additional steps needed for full administrative cleanup in the FHA."

Set Off by Gambling
Cole later confirmed published reports that gambling by one key FHA official had a part in setting off the investigation.

The Washington Post and Times-Herald said the FBI received a report that this unnamed official dropped as much as $5,000 in a single night, roughly half his annual salary.

Cole said he knew nothing of a $5,000 loss, but that "I do know (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

Market Prices Reach Highest Figures Since Days of 1930

By RADER WINGET
New York, April 17 (AP)—The stock market romped forward in another bullish buying spree this week.

Prices on average were up in new high territory that hasn't been scratched since the days of 1930.

For the past seven months, the stock market has let nothing stand in the way of its climb, not even the normal reactions that come along as a matter of course.

While others have been crying about the recession that is just around the corner, the stock market has been forging ahead steadily.

Why is this? And what is ahead? Perhaps the most popular theory is this—when business was booming in the postwar years, the stock market was rolling ahead in a cautious and conservative manner. Now, when the business boom appears to be over-extended, the stock market is simply catching up with itself.

Freedom Is In Danger, Papers Told

Editors' Meeting Listens to Cautions on Plan of Lawyers to Hold Up Information

Washington, April 17 (AP)—The nation's editors were told today that proposals before the New York State Bar Assn. to ban the release of pre-trial information on criminal cases would jeopardize both freedom of the press and the right of fair trial.

Robert C. Notson, managing editor of the morning Oregonian, Portland, arranged to report on the New York proposal to the American Society of Newspaper Editors (ASNE) as the group neared the close of its three-day annual meeting here.

Notson attacked the proposal, in the current issue of the society's bulletin, as a "regression in democratic process" which "should be resisted by every citizen who believes in free institutions, including members of the bar."

The ASNE committee on freedom of information yesterday listed the New York lawyers' resolution among recent developments in several states, which, the committee charged, threatened "the people's access to their courts."

Calls It Smear

Notson said the alleged justification for the clampdown proposal is to prevent "trial by newspaper." This, the Oregon editor declared, is a "badly overworked smear phrase, frequently the alibi for losing counsel."

Actually, Notson said, "investigations of newspapermen and their cooperation with law enforcement officers have resulted many times in the conviction of the guilty and the freeing of the innocent."

Without public knowledge of the evidence and the investigation, he added, the public cannot judge the work of its law enforcement officers, prosecutors and judges.

"Such a law as that now proposed could be very useful to arbitrary, stupid and corrupt officials in evading a proper accounting for their acts," Notson said.

Closing Agenda

On the closing-day agenda the society listed the election of a new president, shop-talk sessions ranging from slanted writing to newspaper coverage of the last Kinsey report, a luncheon speech by Robert H. Winters, Canadian minister of public works, and a dinner address by former President Herbert Hoover.

In keeping with its tradition of naming its first vice-president to the presidency, the editors were expected to elect James S. Pope of the Louisville Courier-Journal as their new president succeeding Basil L. Walters, Chicago, executive editor of the Knight newspapers.

Coleman Harwell of the Nashville Tennessean told the editors why Nashville's two dailies, the Tennessean and the Banner, have stopped printing daily television and radio listings. The answer, he said, is that daily logs cost much money and effort—outlays which properly are "the responsibility of the TV and radio stations themselves."

They coincided in 1923 and 1927 but will not again until 1981. The date of Easter is determined by the Georgian calendar, based on the earth's position in relation to the sun, and that of Passover by the Hebrew calendar, based on the moon's position in relation to the earth and sun.

Welders must pass state tests to hold their jobs, Doyle pointed out, and he felt state inspectors should meet the same requirements.

JCC Finishes Plans For Easter Egg Hunt

Plans are all set for the first annual Easter egg hunt to be held at Forsyth Park at 3 p. m. tomorrow when 360 chocolate-covered marshmallow eggs will be hidden on the main field.

Children up to and including eight years of age are eligible to participate in the hunt, sponsored by the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce. Robert Matthews is chairman of the committee in charge of the activity.

The youngster who finds most eggs will receive a live bunny. Other prizes in the form of silver dollars will be awarded to children finding six specially wrapped eggs.

Why is this? And what is ahead?

Perhaps the most popular theory is this—when business was booming in the postwar years, the stock market was rolling ahead in a cautious and conservative manner. Now, when the business boom appears to be over-extended, the stock market is simply catching up with itself.

Today you can get lots of statistics showing that stock market prices are conservative on a yield basis. That means that prices being paid for a corporation's stock are in line with the amount of money the company is earning.

Market Prices Reach Highest Figures Since Days of 1930

By RADER WINGET

New York, April 17 (AP)—The stock market romped forward in another bullish buying spree this week.

Prices on average were up in new high territory that hasn't been scratched since the days of 1930.

For the past seven months, the stock market has let nothing stand in the way of its climb, not even the normal reactions that come along as a matter of course.

While others have been crying about the recession that is just around the corner, the stock market has been forging ahead steadily.

Vice President Regarded as Spokesman for Security Council on Foreign Policy

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Vice President Nixon says American troops might be used in a last-ditch effort to save Indochina. The statement brought prompt challenges from both Republican and Democratic lawmakers.

The vice president said he does not believe such action will be necessary because he thinks Indochina can be saved from the Communists by other means, but in the unlikely event that French forces withdraw, he said, this country would have to send in troops.

Nixon expressed his views in an off-the-record address to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He later permitted newsmen to report his remarks on condition they not be attributed directly to him.

News stories reporting his remarks first identified him as a high administration official.

Close Connection

But he was connected with the statements from several sources. The London Times included in its story a statement that the only high administration source making a speech here yesterday was Nixon. And the Niles (Mich.) Daily Star said Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.), expressing opposition to the statement, had identified Nixon as its source.

Nixon himself was not immediately available for comment on the "leaks."

The disclosure that Nixon was the administration source in question lent added weight to the expression of policy, since he sits in with the National Security Council and at cabinet sessions.

Whether his frank discussion of the issue would have repercussions within the administration remained to be seen. Nixon has acted as spokesman for President (Continued on Page 7, Col. 5)

Full Cleanup May Bring Early Prosecutions in Scandal Check of U. S. FHA

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole says early criminal prosecutions may develop out of a "full administrative cleanup" of the scandal-shocked Federal Housing Administration (FHA). He also promises new top level firings.

Cole summoned to a strategy council this afternoon key officials of the Justice Department, the Internal Revenue Service, and his housing and home finance agency (HHEFA) which has jurisdiction over the FHA.

President Eisenhower yesterday armed Cole with a directive to all federal agencies to cooperate fully with the administration's probe of alleged multi-million dollar racketeers under the FHA's loan insurance program in the home repair and apartment construction fields.

Committees Ready

Two congressional committees are set to open public hearings next week in parallel investigations of the FHA, and the Eisenhower order directed federal cooperation with these groups also.

Cole announced yesterday that Burton C. Bova had been "placed on leave" after he had refused to quit as FHA general counsel. Cole said that "in the next few days we will make such other removals as are necessary to insure a free, swift, uninhibited investigation of all relevant FHA matters."

Mentioning evidence already uncovered of "inefficient" official laxity, Cole said he expects "in a fairly short time . . . to develop cases possibly leading to prosecution and to take any additional steps needed for full administrative cleanup in the FHA."

Set Off by Gambling

Cole later confirmed published reports that gambling by one key FHA official had a part in setting off the investigation.

The Washington Post and Times-Herald said the FBI received a report that this unnamed official dropped as much as $5,000 in a single night, roughly half his annual salary.

Cole said he knew nothing of a $5,000 loss, but that "I do know (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

Chases Driver

Police headquarters received a report at 12:03 a. m. today from James Dixon of 13 Meadow street that a car he believed to be a 1940 or 1941 black sedan struck his car on East Strand and proceeded without stopping. He said he chased and caught up with the other car but that the driver refused to identify himself. The alleged license number of the vehicle was reported to police.

Firemen were able to confine a fire at 215 Foxhall avenue to the kitchen late yesterday afternoon although considerable damage was reported to its contents.

Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central and Engine 4 from Wicks Hose were dispatched at 6:08 p. m. (Continued on Page 7, Col. 6)

Mishaps Reported During Friday Rain

Police Record Three Cases of Hit, Run Drivers, One Runaway

Three hit-and-run cases, a runaway car and a fire were incidents reported in rain-dimmed Kingston yesterday afternoon and last night.

The "runaway" was reported at 4:30 p. m. Friday on Grand street at the A & P parking lot, according to a police report.

Car Rolls Out

Elton Doughty of 9 Madden street told police he parked his car on Grand street and that a 1952 sedan owned by Floyd Elting of 38 Prince street rolled out of the parking lot and struck his right rear fender. Officer William Slover, who investigated, said Elting told him the emergency brake on his car had let go.

Mrs. Frank J. Prusack of 586 Third avenue reported at 5:36 p. m. that someone had struck her 1951 sedan sometime Thursday night while it was parked in front of 47 Elmendorf street, damaging the left front fender.

At 5:59 p. m. William H. Swart of 247 Clifton avenue reported to police headquarters that he was driving his 1952 sedan west on St. James street when he was struck by a black sedan traveling north on Pine street and that the driver of the other vehicle failed to stop and identify himself.

18th Century Hymn Is Easter Favorite

This grand, 215-year-old hymn is as popular at Easter as "Silent Night" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" are for Christmas. It was written by the Rev. Charles Wesley in 1739. Wesley did not write the music. Someone, possibly Martin Madan, set the words to a tune composed by J. Worgan in 1708. To fill in extra measures, he added the Hebrew ejaculation "Hallelujah!" at the end of every

The hymn reflects incidents of the Crucifixion and the Resurrection, mounting from verse to verse to a triumphant climax. 18th Century Hymn Is Easter Favorite

This grand, 215-year-old hymn is as popular at Easter as "Silent Night" and "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" are for Christmas. It was written by the Rev. Charles Wesley in 1739. Wesley did not write the music. Someone, possibly Martin Madan, set the words to a tune composed by J. Worgan in 1708. To fill in extra measures, he added the Hebrew ejaculation "Hallelujah!" at the end of every

Christ the Lord is risen today,
Sons of men and angels say:
Raise your joys and triumphs high,
Sing ye heav'ns and earth reply.

This verse rejoices in a risen Christ. His followers were stunned by His death. The Resurrection returned His presence to them vividly and renewed their faith in His leadership.

Vain the stone, the watch, the seal,
Christ has burst the gates of hell:
Death in vain forbids His rise;
Christ hath opened paradise.

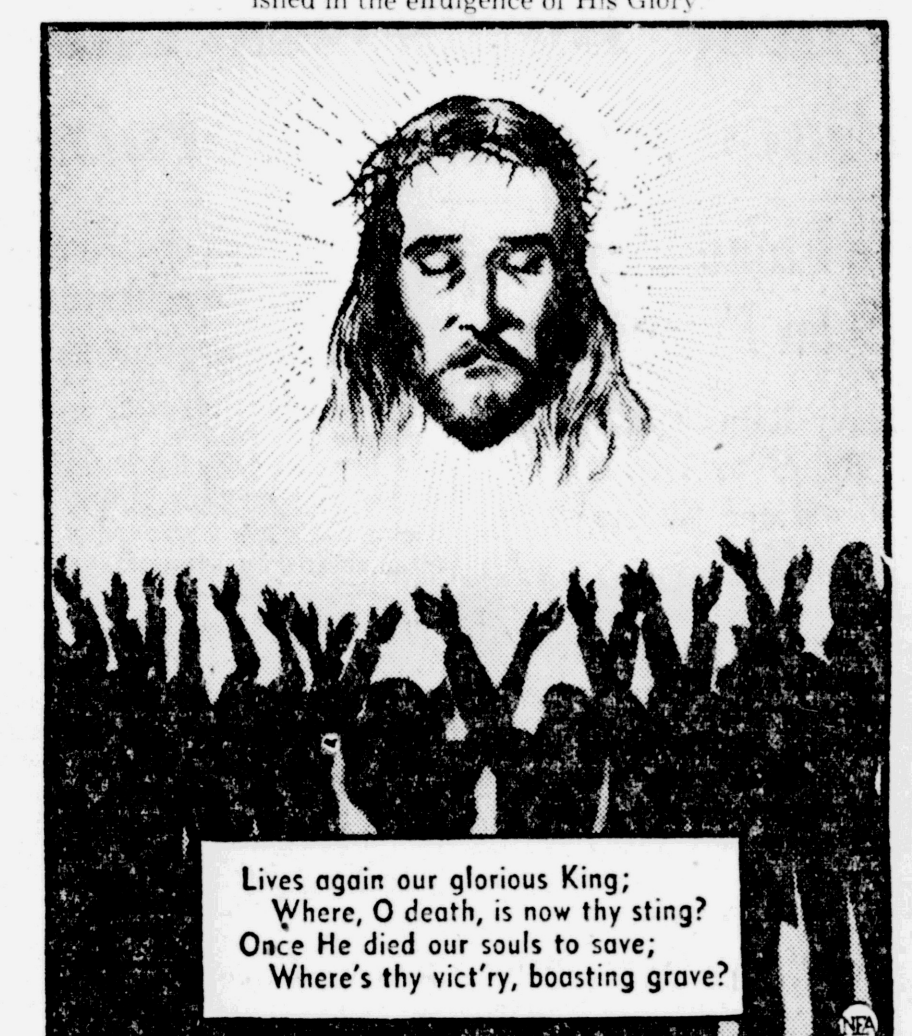

Neither Pilate's attempts to prevent the moving of Christ's body nor even the traditional descent into hell could prevent the opening of the Kingdom of Heaven to all believers.

line. Today we sing many verses, but Wesley is thought to have written only four, the others being added after Wesley's death in 1788. The hymn reflects incidents of the Crucifixion and the Resurrection, illustrating from verse to verse to a triumphant climax. Beneath the illustrations are the generally accepted interpretations of Wesley's poetic lines.

Love's redeeming work is done;
Fought the fight, the battle won:
Lo! the sun's eclipse is o'er;
Lo! He sets in blood no more.

In the Resurrection, the redeeming love of God has accomplished its work. Eclipse of the sun, symbol of temporary defeat, is banished in the effulgence of His Glory.

Lives again our glorious King;
Where, O death, is now thy sting?
Once He died our souls to save;
Where's thy vict'ry, boasting grave?

The hymn's exultant phrases rejoice in a living King. There is the promise, first voiced by Paul, that all followers of Christ will conquer death, as did their Master.

Easter Message On Immortality

Hope of Immortality
One of the great questions that men in all ages have asked is "If a man die, shall he live again?" It was asked by Job of old, and it is still being asked by people today. Some, indeed, have answered this question in the negative, and have said, "No." But Christianity has an affirmative answer. It says "Yes." Christ, Himself, who rose from the dead, and triumphed over death and the grave, said "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

This has been the firm conviction and belief of Christians through the centuries; and it is still their unshaken faith today. St. Paul affirmed this faith when he said: "We know that if this earthly house of our tabernacle in which we live, be destroyed we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

The Hope of Immortality comes to us not as an isolated article of faith, which must be proved and defended by itself. It is a member of a family of beliefs which are closely related—faith in God—faith in Christ—faith in the Holy Spirit who dwells in the hearts of men and women—faith in a society of redeemed and ennobled souls—faith in the communion of saints; and, as a fitting climax, faith in the life everlasting.

Tennyson's belief in Immortality was based on his faith in God, for he said, "Thou wilt not leave us in the dust, Thou madest man; he knows not why; he thinks he made to die, and Thou madest him, Thou art just."

Once Christ was crucified; and after He was dead, they took His body down from the cross, and placed it in a tomb. But His spirit could not be imprisoned in a tomb. And today we sing: "Up from the grave He arose, With a mighty triumph o'er His foes; He arose a victor from the dark domain, And He lives forever with His saints to reign; He arose! He arose! Hallelujah! Christ arose."

And today He is alive to live for evermore; and He reassures us by saying, "Because I live, you will live also."

Sincerely,
REV. HERBERT W. HAHN

Washington, April 17 (AP)—The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for the period from mid-April to mid-May calls for temperatures to average below normals from the central Rocky Mountain area eastward to the Mississippi.

Above normal temperatures are predicted along the Pacific coast and also in the southeast, while near normal values are expected in areas not specified above.

Ready-Made Kitchens

Eliminating household drudgery by a step-saving kitchen is the dream of every housewife. Because of rapid progress in prefabrication, in the future the lady of the house should be able to select a complete kitchen from a catalogue, where she will be able to choose her favorite color combination with accessories to match.

Test Smoking Fireplace

If your fireplace smokes and you know it is properly constructed and has no obstruction in the flue, such as a swallow's nest or fallen brick, hold a board across the top of the opening to see if that corrects it. If so, a permanent metal hood can be installed to reduce the height of the opening.

When Applying Insulation

When an attic is made into a room, the insulation usually should be applied so that it follows the outline of the room rather than the roof line, according to building authorities. The uninsulated area surrounding the room should be ventilated.

Something Different

A modern oyster gray frame house with a flat roof has a gray-blue trim and tangerine-toned doors. The tangerine tone is also repeated on slender columns that support the roof overhang by the entrance door and the car port.

Color Caulking

A Philadelphia manufacturer has developed a new line of caulking compounds in 26 different colors and shades to match or contrast with colors of windows and doors.

House Settles Slowly

The builder of the average new home must assemble more than 3200 component parts before the job is completed. Many of these parts change with the weather so that it may take a year before it is completely settled.

All-Purpose Room

The idea of having an all-purpose room adjacent to the kitchen is gaining favor, architects and real estate developers report. Housewives dislike being isolated from the family and welcome an informal room, they explain.

Lazy Man's Shower

A "sit-down" shower for a bathtub is among the latest contraptions. It consists of a perforated tube that's attached with suction cups all around the tub.

Priming Coat Is Often Essential

When you're advised by the label on a paint can to apply a priming coat to wood or plaster before the finishing coat be sure to do so. The primer seals the pores of a surface and prevents the uneven absorption of final coatings. As a prime coat provides a flat surface that is not-too-smooth, it serves as a good base for your finish coats, too.

As there are several sorts of primers, your selection should depend on the job you are doing. Any paint dealer will help you choose the right type. In some cases—where primers come only in white, it's a good idea to mix in a little of the paint-color to be used for finishing. This will tint the base coat.

Housewives Vote On New Ideas For Gas Ranges

Modern gas appliances are being designed by housewives through customer polls. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association says that at least 75 per cent of all domestic gas ranges being made this year have been designed on the basis of surveys.

Emphasis in the new gas stoves is on automatic clock controls for timed cooking. Expandable ovens, smokeless burners, simmer-type burners and restaurant-style griddles are among other features of the modern range.

New gas appliances for the home also include: Automatic water heaters with finger-tip controls for various temperatures preferred in baking, dishwashing, laundering.

Gas-fired heating plants to provide air-conditioning.

Clothes dryers in which the family laundry is fluff-dried in 15 to 20 minutes, even on rainy days.

Imitation Ebony Finish

To give an imitation ebony finish to a piece of furniture, apply black water stain with even strokes to avoid unevenly colored areas. Two or three coats may be necessary. Sand after each coat has dried, as water stain raises the grain of the wood. Give final coating protection with thin coat of shellac. After it is dry, dull the gloss by rubbing lightly with a piece of fine, worn sandpaper.

Curved Sideboard Front

The familiar serpentine front on sideboards had its origin in the nine-foot-long pieces that were designed with a sufficiently bowed center to enable the butler in great 18th-century dining halls to take his station in the curve where he was out of the way of footmen serving dinner.

Before Starting to Paint

When you buy paint, be sure to obtain the accessories you will need. Besides the tools for application—brush, roller or spray gun see that you have materials for repairing the surface, such as crack fillers. Make sure, also, that you have the things needed for cleaning the surface—as well as materials for making it smooth.

Natural Variation in Oak

Oak flooring in the strip style, the type used in most American homes, can be selected for variations in color, mineral streaks and other natural irregularities. Floors of such material contribute an element of distinctiveness which adds appeal to a home, according to interior decorators.

Woven Footstools

A hobby growing in favor with women is the making of woven footstools. When the weaving is finished, two or more coats of thinned white shellac applied to the back of the cover before it is applied to the stool will increase the durability.

Antenna Beautified

A simpler, cheaper and "more slightly" television antenna is in production at Haverhill, Mass., and will be on the market shortly, the New England Council reports.

Chimney Pots Are Picturesque

Chimney pots are always a picturesque feature of the design of a house. They may be of many forms—simple pots for Colonial dwellings, or products of English Gothic, tudor or Georgian designs taken from old manor houses of England.

For the city house, suburban home or country estate, those pots are practical and appropriate. They add a final touch that gives the chimney a definitely finished appearance.

The chimney pot at its apex should not be less than two feet higher than the nearest peak roof and not less than three feet higher than the nearest flat roof. The flue of the pot should not be smaller than the chimney flue, although a larger flue is thoroughly practical. A round pot can be used with a rectangular flue or vice versa.

Hose Serves as Guide

For a Curving Border

Since the effect of sweeping curves is more pleasing to the eye than straight lines, many families prefer an irregularly curving border for flower beds.

An easy method of marking the turf to form the curves is to lay a garden hose along the border to be prepared, following the shape of the desired curves. Study the position of the hose from several angles, readjusting it here and there until it follows exactly the desired contour. Then use a spade or edging tool to cut the turf along the hose.

Studio Couch Cover

Inexpensive cotton fabric in gay colors can make an excellent cover for a studio couch and lend itself to flat braid trim. Try using this across the center of a straight edge made with box-pleated corners and repeat the design on square bolster pillows and all four sides of the front.

Ways of Cleaning Knotty Pine Wall

One argument in favor of the knotty pine which is used for walls in so many modern homes is that once finished it stays finished. This is true but in time even knotty pine becomes smoky or dirty and a cleaning problem results.

The walls can be rubbed with a half and half mixture of linseed oil and turpentine. In wiping this on, the soiling should disappear. After an hour or so, wipe off the excess oil. Try this method first, however, on a small hidden part of the wall to see what the effect will be.

Another method is to clean the wood with a liquid rubbing wax—not the self-polishing type. Use plenty of clean cloths, changing them as soon as they become soiled. When clean, the surfaces can be polished by rubbing them with clean, soft cloths. Much of this treatment will depend on what kind of finish is on the wood.

Garden Pool in Winter

It is not a good idea to drain the water out of concrete garden pools because this may cause the sides to crack. It's better to keep the pool full of water and cover it over to prevent freezing. Another method is to toss a few small logs into the water. The logs will absorb the expansion when ice forms and prevent the sides of the pool from cracking.

Wooden Windows

Four out of five householders—more than 84 per cent of those questioned in a nationwide survey—reported that their homes have wooden windows. Steel windows are used in seven per cent of the houses and aluminum in 4.9 per cent. In the northeastern states alone, 91.7 per cent of the dwellings covered in the survey have wood windows.

Easter Message On Immortality

Hope of Immortality
One of the great questions that men in all ages have asked is "If a man die, shall he live again?" It was asked by Job of old, and it is still being asked by people today. Some, indeed, have answered this question in the negative, and have said, "No." But Christianity has an affirmative answer. It says "Yes." Christ, Himself, Who rose from the dead, and triumphed over death and the grave, said "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."

This has been the firm conviction and belief of Christians through the centuries; and it is still their unshaken faith today. St. Paul affirmed this faith when he said: "We know that if this earthly house of our tabernacle in which we live, be destroyed we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

The Hope of Immortality comes to us not as an isolated article of faith, which must be proved and defended by itself. It is a member of a family of beliefs which are closely related—faith in God—faith in Christ—faith in the Holy Spirit Who dwells in the hearts of men and women—faith in a society of redeemed and ennobled souls—faith in the communion of saints; and, as a fitting climax, faith in the life everlasting.

Tennyson's belief in Immortality was based on his faith in God, for he said, "Thou wilt not leave us in the dust. Thou madest man; he knows not why; he thinks he was made to die, and Thou madest him, Thou art just!"

Once Christ was crucified, and after He was dead, they took His body down from the cross, and placed it in a tomb. But His spirit could not be imprisoned in a tomb. And today we sing: "Up from the grave He arose, With a mighty triumph o'er His foes; He arose a victor from the dark domain."

And He lives forever with His saints to reign; He arose! He arose! Hallelujah! Christ arose."

And today He is alive to live for evermore; and He reassures us by saying, "Because I live, you will live also."

Sincerely,
REV. HERBERT W. HAHN

Wallace Wood and Mrs. William E. Ryland. There will be no meeting of the Orange Arms Sunday. Tuesday, 7 p. m., Boy Scout Troop will meet in the parish room. Wednesday, 6:30 p. m., church school. Thursday, 7:30 p. m., senior choir rehearsal is held in the parish room under the direction of Mrs. Wallace Wood. There will be no meeting of the Women's Missionary Society this month. Everyone is cordially welcome to all services in this church. The church is open daily for prayer and meditation.

30-Day Forecast Is For Low Temperatures

Washington, April 17 (AP)—The Weather Bureau's 30-day outlook for the period from mid-April to mid-May calls for temperatures to average below normals from the central Rocky Mountain area eastward to the Mississippi. Above normal temperatures are predicted along the Pacific coast and also in the southeast, while near normal values are expected in areas not specified above.

Precipitation is predicted to be subnormal over most areas west of the Continental Divide, but above normal rainfall is indicated over a broad area comprising the Gulf states, Mississippi and Ohio valleys, and the Middle Atlantic states. Near normal precipitation is expected in other areas, the bureau added.

Ready-Made Kitchens

Eliminating household drudgery by a step-saving kitchen is the dream of every housewife. Because of rapid progress in prefabrication, in the future the lady of the house should be able to select a complete kitchen from a catalogue, where she will be able to choose her favorite color combination with accessories to match.

Test Smoking Fireplace

If your fireplace smokes and you know it is properly constructed and has no obstruction in the flue, such as a swallow's nest or fallen brick, hold a board across the top of the opening to see if that corrects it. If so, a permanent mud hood can be installed to reduce the height of the opening.

When Applying Insulation

When an attic is made into a room, the insulation usually should be applied so that it follows the outline of the room rather than the roof line, according to building authorities. The uninsulated area surrounding the room should be ventilated.

Something Different

A modern oyster gray frame house with a flat roof has a gray-blue trim and tangerine-toned doors. The tangerine tone is also repeated on slender columns that support the roof overhang by the entrance door and the car port.

Color Caulking

A Philadelphia manufacturer has developed a new line of caulking compounds in 26 different colors and shades to match or contrast with colors of windows and doors.

House Settles Slowly

The builder of the average new home must assemble more than 3200 component parts before the job is completed. Many of these parts change with the weather so that it may take a year before it is completely settled.

All-Purpose Room

The idea of having an all-purpose room adjacent to the kitchen is gaining favor, architects and real estate developers report. Housewives dislike being isolated from the family and welcome an informal room, they explain.

Lazy Man's Shower

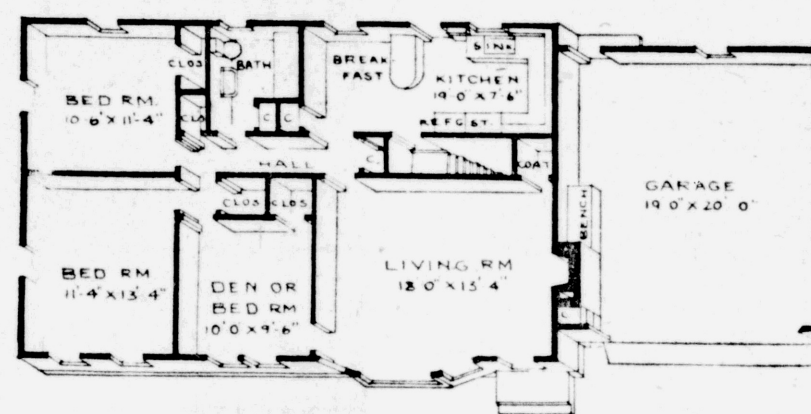

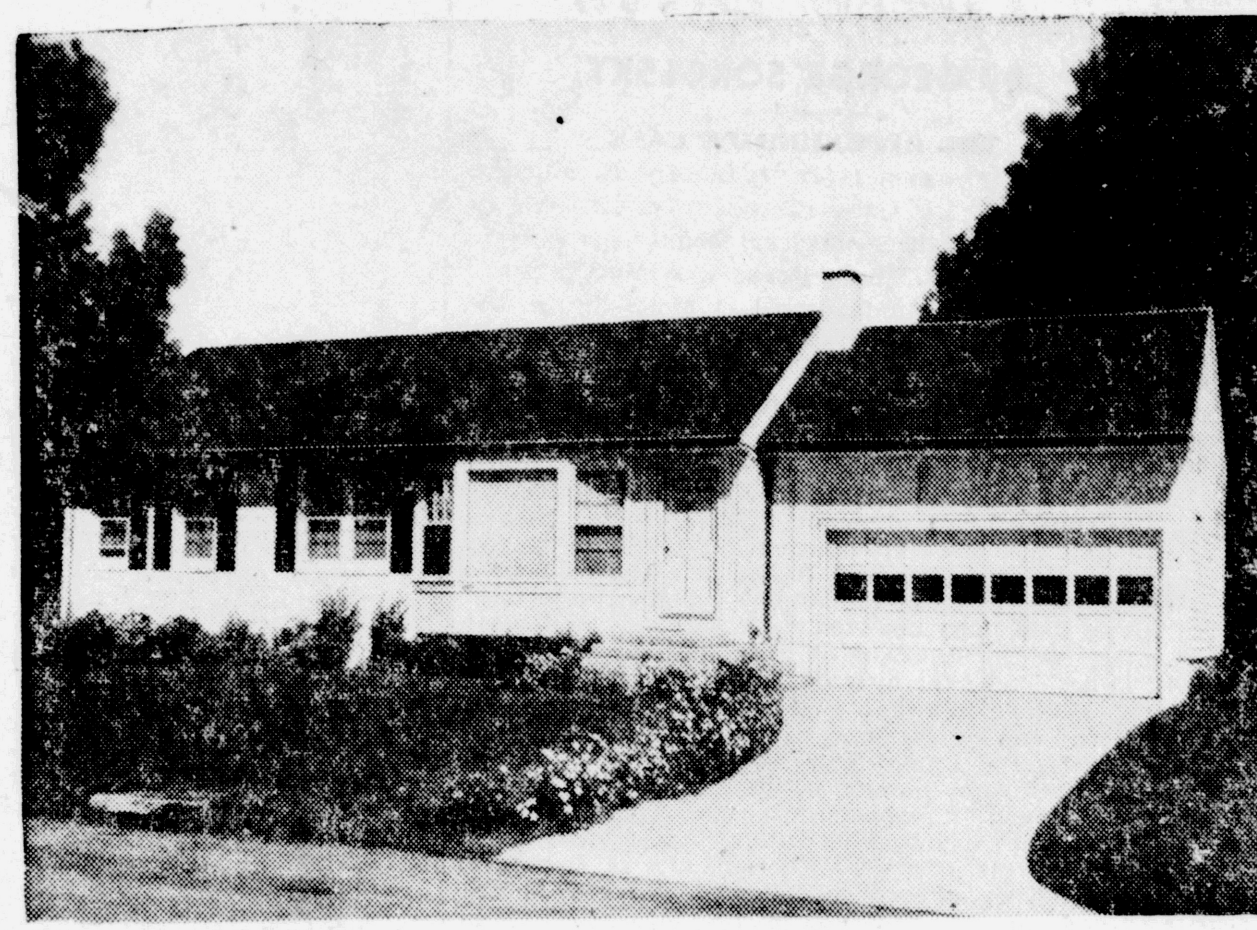

A "sit-down" shower for a bathtub is among the latest contraptions. It consists of a perforated tube that's attached with suction cups all around the tub.

Priming Coat Is Often Essential

When you're advised by the label on a paint can to apply a priming coat to wood or plaster before the finishing coat be sure to do so. The primer seals the pores of a surface and prevents the uneven absorption of final coatings. As a prime coat provides a flat surface that is not-too-smooth, it serves as a good base for your finish coats, too.

As there are several sorts of primers, your selection should depend on the job you are doing. Any paint dealer will help you choose the right type. In some cases—where primers come only in white, it's a good idea to mix in a little of the paint-color to be used for finishing. This will tint the base coat.

Housewives Vote On New Ideas For Gas Ranges

Modern gas appliances are being designed by housewives through customer polls. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association says that at least 75 per cent of all domestic gas ranges being made this year have been designed on the basis of surveys.

Emphasis in the new gas stoves is on automatic clock controls for timed cooking. Expandable ovens, smokeless broilers, simmer-type burners and restaurant-style griddles are among other features of the modern range.

New gas appliances for the home also include: Automatic water heaters with finger-tip controls for various temperatures preferred in baking, dishwashing, laundering.

Gas-fired heating plants to provide air-conditioning. Clothes dryers in which the family laundry is fluff-dried in 15 to 20 minutes, even on rainy days.

Imitation Ebony Finish

To give an imitation ebony finish to a piece of furniture, apply black water stain with even strokes to avoid unevenly colored areas. Two or three coats may be necessary. Sand after each coat has dried, as water stain raises the grain of the wood. Give final coating protection with thin coat of shellac. After it is dry, dull the gloss by rubbing lightly with a piece of fine, worn sandpaper.

Curved Sideboard Front

The familiar serpentine front on sideboards had its origin in the nine-foot-long pieces that were designed with a sufficiently bowed center to enable the butler in great 18th-century dining halls to take his station in the curve where he was out of the way of footmen serving dinner.

Before Starting to Paint

When you buy paint, be sure to obtain the accessories you will need. Besides the tools for application—brush, roller or spray gun—see that you have materials for repairing the surface, such as crack fillers. Make sure, also, that you have the things needed for cleaning the surface—as well as materials for making it smooth.

Natural Variation in Oak

Oak flooring in the strip style, the type used in most American homes, can be selected for variations in color, mineral streaks and other natural irregularities. Floors of such material contribute an element of distinctiveness which adds appeal to a home, according to interior decorators.

Woven Footstools

A hobby growing in favor with women is the making of woven foot stools. When the weaving is finished, two or more coats of thinned white shellac applied to the back of the cover before it is applied to the stool will increase the durability.

Antenna Beautified

A simpler, cheaper and "more slightly" television antenna is in production at Haverhill, Mass., and will be on the market shortly, the New England Council reports.

Chimney Pots Are Picturesque

Chimney pots are always a picturesque feature of the design of a house. They may be of many forms—simple pots for Colonial dwellings, or products of English Gothic, tudor or Georgian designs taken from old manor houses of England.

For the city house, suburban home or country estate, these pots are practical and appropriate. They add a final touch that gives the chimney a definitely finished appearance.

The chimney pot at its apex should not be less than two feet higher than the nearest peak roof and not less than three feet higher than the nearest flat roof. The flue of the pot should not be smaller than the chimney flue, although a larger flue is thoroughly practical.

A round pot can be used with a rectangular flue or vice versa.

Hose Serves as Guide

For a Curving Border

Since the effect of sweeping curves is more pleasing to the eye than straight lines, many families prefer an irregularly curving border for flower beds.

An easy method of marking the turf to form the curves is to lay a garden hose along the border to be prepared, following the shape of the desired curves. Study the position of the hose from several angles, readjusting it here and there until it follows exactly the desired contour. Then use a spade or edging tool to cut the turf along the hose.

Studio Couch Cover

Inexpensive cotton fabric in gay colors can make an excellent cover for a studio couch and lend itself to flat brand trim. Try using this across the center of a straight edge made with box-headed corners and repeat the design on square bolster pillows and all four sides of the front.

DAY OF TRIUMPH

This year, in the midst of our fears and tensions, the meaning of Easter is particularly significant and comforting. Easter is the celebration of the triumph of love over hate, of truth over falsehood, of the spirit over death.

The enemies of Christ were certain that they had destroyed Him, that they had once and for all put an end to the disturbing doctrines of love and gentleness He taught to the people with whom He lived and prayed. Some of His closest followers had been driven to deny Him. One of them betrayed Him for a handful of silver. He was falsely accused, scourged, spat upon, ridiculed and put to death on the cross. He was laid to His rest in a borrowed tomb.

Yet 2,000 years later the doctrines He proclaimed are the guideposts of civilization. The lessons he taught are still the best hope of mankind for whom He willingly gave His life.

Easter is a glorious holiday for in the victory of Christ all men in all times were made victorious.

A book was returned to the Toledo, Ohio, library which had been borrowed in 1882. The news raises our hopes that some of the books we lent to friends and gave up as lost may eventually find their way back to our shelves.

MAINE'S UNIQUE CUSTOM

Maine Democrats are seeking to abolish the September state election, the only exception to the general American practice of voting in November. They believe they would stand more chance of winning if the national election took place at the same time, thus bringing out more voters. They recall that in 1940, 1944 and 1948 the Democratic presidential candidates were not far from carrying Maine, although the September elections had gone Republican by a large majority.

Early elections used to be more common. In Lincoln's day Pennsylvania and Ohio had October elections, at which both parties spent money lavishly to make a showing which might enhance their November chances. Vermont changed from September to November only a generation ago.

There are good arguments for electing state officers when no national election coincides to confuse the issues. The former September and October states found, however, that elections held then corrupted their citizens because floods of out-of-state money were poured in to improve party showings. How far Maine is influenced by these considerations is not yet certain. Perhaps the deciding factor may be force of habit.

THE DEADLIEST BOMB

First the ordinary bomb, then the block-buster, then the atomic bomb, now the hydrogen bomb. Although the last named has already developed far beyond its original form, even this may not be the last word in explosive weapons. We are already beginning to hear of the cobalt bomb.

This, possibly being worked on now, is not primarily a mass destructive weapon like the A-bomb. It is a means of prolonging for a considerable period the radio-activity of its two predecessors. In can hold radio-activity for several years, and make areas for practical purposes uninhabitable. Without it the deadly qualities of the A-bomb and H-bomb would soon be lost. The cobalt bomb can also be diluted, so to speak. If it is desired to make certain areas only temporarily dangerous, that can be done.

If a C-bomb fell on New York, our greatest city and port would become a place of deadly peril for a long time. Such a weapon could really ruin a nation, reducing it to a series of primitive settlements. The most unscrupulous might hesitate at using such a weapon, yet a madman might not hesitate.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE OPPENHEIMER CASE

In his television reply to Edward R. Murrow, Senator Joe McCarthy charged that research on the hydrogen (thermonuclear) bomb had been delayed 18 months. The response was immediate and it was generally unfavorable to McCarthy on the assumption that he was making a wild, baseless insinuation.

Representative W. Sterling Cole, Chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee of the Congress, immediately stepped into the breach and gave a forthright statement of the facts which established beyond doubt that there had been a delay. He, however, omitted any reference to Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, the Italian scientist of British citizenship, one of the world's principal experts in this field, who deserted from our side and went over to the Russians. He has since been engaged in developing the hydrogen bomb for Soviet Russia. Bruno Pontecorvo and a group of Italian scientists, Enrico Fermi, Edoardo Amaldi, Franco Rasetti and Emilio Segre, believed that they had invented some phases of all this work on atomic fission and thermonuclear fusion. They had been assisted financially by a Dutch company and by an Italian entrepreneur, G. N. Giannini of Pasadena, Calif. They offered to sell their product to the United States Government for $100,000. This was a patent suit involving an Italian patent and an American patent granted in 1940. The Atomic Energy Commission at first rejected their demands but took the product of their work. They were unable to sue in the courts because everything about the matter was so very top secret that a trial would have been impossible. In 1953, the Atomic Energy Commission settled this issue for $300,000.

It was too late so far as Bruno Pontecorvo was concerned. He had taken his wares and given them to the other side.

I add this item to the inquiry into the affairs of J. Robert Oppenheimer because it is time that every phase of this problem be studied.

The Atomic Energy Commission itself may or may not be a suitable agency to investigate and reach conclusions about Oppenheimer and the entire A.E.C. scandal, which includes the Klaus Fuchs and Julius Rosenberg espionage operations. If Oppenheimer is innocent, no justice will be done him by closed sessions and a white-wash; if he is guilty of misconduct, stupidity or malfeasance, the public ought to know. The A.E.C. investigation will sooner or later be followed by a Congressional committee investigation.

The story about J. Robert Oppenheimer and his brother, Frank, has been going the rounds since 1946. Testifying before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on June 14, 1949, Frank Oppenheimer said:

"Mr. Russell (committee counsel). You stated this morning that when you joined the Communist Party you used the name Frank Folsom.

"Dr. Oppenheimer. May I correct that? I did not use the name Frank Folsom. When I joined the Communist Party, for some reason which I did not understand at the time and have never understood since, they requested that my right name and another name be written down. They seemed to me ludicrous. I never used any name but my own, and at the time, because of the fact it seemed so ludicrous, I wrote down the name of a California jail."

At the time of that hearing, the question of the relations of J. Robert Oppenheimer to Communist activities was freely discussed.

In January, 1946, a committee was appointed by the Under Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, to report on the international control of atomic energy. This committee appointed a Board of Consultants headed by David E. Lilienthal, then chairman of the TVA, and included among its members J. Robert Oppenheimer. This Board of Consultants prepared the Acheson-Lilienthal Report, which Bernard M. Baruch found inadequate when he was appointed to deal with the matter.

It seems to me that the Oppenheimer case opens the way to a full investigation into all the various ways in which the development of atomic fission as a weapon of war, including the espionage efforts of the Russians, their use of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, Julius Rosenberg, etc., the rejection by some scientists of the American advantage of priority, the political activities of the scientists, etc. Men make mistakes and in the hurry of war, they make serious mistakes. That is no crime if the motive was not treachery. What is wrong is to keep the people in ignorance and doubt.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

EXAMINATION OF THE COLON

If you are having attacks of indigestion and your doctor finds that the symptoms do not follow any regular course as in a disease such as inflammation of the stomach, he may order an X-ray examination of the stomach (gastrium) and intestine.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, the chairman, Dr. Paul C. Hodges, Chicago, gives an address on the Roentgen (X-ray) examination of the colon—large intestine—in which he states that X-ray examination of the colon dates back to the previous century and to the earliest days of radiology but it did not become a clinical tool until the enema with opaque material displaced the giving of bismuth by mouth. Opaque materials are white chemicals which appear black under X-rays. It is because the last few inches of the colon (lower bowel) are so important in diagnosing disturbances in this region that the enema of the colon is now a part of the lower bowel investigation. To obtain this picture of the colon, careful preparations must be made.

"Ideally, the barium sulfate—white chemical—should be administered only after the colon has been rendered completely free of feces (wastes in the colon), fluid and gas." Today in most hospitals simple old-fashioned castor oil is given the day before the procedure. The patient takes only clear fluids for 24 hours before the examination of the colon and then takes two ounces of castor oil 20 hours before the examination. It is important that the patient be instructed to take only clear fluids. He is allowed to take at will water, coffee or tea with sugar, carbonated beverages, sweetened fruit juices, and clear soups. He is not allowed to take cream soups, gravies, noodles, crackers, milk, cream, eggs and all solid foods. This method allows an out-patient to continue light work until the onset of catharsis (bowel-emptying) and makes it possible for the in-patient to undergo other examination and tests up to the hour of his X-ray appointment.

Dr. Dodge states further that so many patients so dislike castor oil that he has tried "sweetened" substances but has found none as effective as castor oil.

The barium sulfate used may be given in a glass of buttermilk which is not difficult to take. Also, most X-ray specialists purchase the barium direct from the manufacturer to be sure of getting the kind best suited for X-ray examination.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — The drought in southwestern states is pointing up several other acute farm problems to U. S. Department of Agriculture experts.

These are over and above the immediate damage to wheat and cotton acreage in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, eastern Colorado, western Kansas and southwestern Nebraska.

1. Indicated crop losses from the drought still aren't big enough to dent the huge U. S. farm surplus reserves.

There's an indicated 72-million-bushel wheat loss from the drought and a crop 200 million bushels below last year. But the U. S. wheat carryover of 8.5 million bushels is still enough to meet all domestic and foreign requirements for the crop year beginning next July 1.

So if not one grain of wheat were grown in the U. S. this year the country could still get by.

The cotton carryover of nearly nine million bales is almost double the requirement for a safe annual reserve. So again, if not one bale of cotton were picked this year, there would be no shortage.

These estimates are based on the assumption that there will be normal weather for the rest of the crop year. Good rains were reported in the dust bowl area for the April 10-12 weekend.

They have temporarily restored surface moisture, but sub-soil moisture is still far below normal. If the U. S. were to go through another extra-dry year like 1934, these huge surpluses which now overhang the market would be looked on as more of a blessing than a curse.

2. Crop insurance payments to wheat farmers in the dust bowl are providing considerable immediate relief.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's crop insurance program is still on an experimental basis. The first experiments were made on wheat. The result is that practically all U. S. wheat acreage is now eligible for crop insurance.

Cotton and corn lands are not insured as extensively.

In the drought and dust bowl area, for instance, nearly all the major wheat areas have been covered. This includes two counties in New Mexico, 18 in Texas, 23 in Oklahoma, 28 in Nebraska and nearly all of Kansas.

The premiums paid the government for this insurance range from $1.25 to $3.25 an acre. The total loss when a farmer's winter wheat is blown away entirely, and there is no chance to plant a late substitute crop, varies from $6.75 to $8.55 an acre.

Department of Agriculture claim adjusters are now in the area making settlements for farmers whose crops are a total loss. There is no indication what the total government loss will be.

Congress is still interested in trying to put crop insurance on a workable basis. For this year, $7.5 million was appropriated. For next year the House has approved just under $7 million.

3. Much of the damaged acreage is marginal grassland that never should have been plowed up and which should now be taken out of production.

In the six-state area worst hit by dust storms, about 3.5 million acres of grassland have been put in cultivation in the last 12 years. This is about 10 per cent of the 37 million acres under cultivation in the 82-million-acre drought area.

The people who put this grassland in wheat or cotton were generally the "drugstore" or "suitcase" farmers from town who had hoped to make a killing in the World War 2 and Korean war markets.

With abundant rainfall in this war period, the land produced without serious damage. This winter's lack of snow and rainfall, plus the normal winter winds, has been responsible for the dust storms that have now made southwest a number one disaster area.

"From 90 to 95 per cent of this 3.5 million acres of land is sandy, shallow soil, unsuitable for crop production," says Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. "Any permanent solution of the dust bowl problem will include reforestation of some land."

An effort is now being made to direct the soil conservation program to take about eight million acres of this marginal land out of production. This will accomplish two things:

It will save the land for grass, for which it is suited. It will reduce the acreage in which crops like wheat and cotton are planted and so help reduce the farm surplus which provide today's most serious farm problem.

Frolics Show Slated At School on May 8

Tillson, April 16—The Tillson School Association members are working on final plans for the show, Frolics of '54, which they will sponsor for their benefit Saturday evening, May 8, at the Tillson school auditorium.

A group of five local talented people, known as the Stone Riders, will appear in the show.

In the group appearing on the show from here are John Steenburgh, Richard Steenburgh, Arthur Van Wagenen, and Carol and Dorothy Cross. This group, after having organized this spring, appeared in Rosendale at an amateur show held to choose acts for the Ted Mack TV show and the Stone Riders were one of the winning acts, later appearing on the finalists show in Kingston.

The girls vocalize well together with a background of pleasing music furnished on guitars and base fiddle by the men.

Following the 90-minute stage show, dancing will be enjoyed from 10 p. m. to midnight, with Speedy Scherer's orchestra of Kingston furnishing the music. Tickets may be purchased at the door or from members of the Association.

Committees were recently appointed as follows: Refreshments, working committee, Mrs. Roy Van Keuren, Mrs. H. E. Harvey, Mrs. Arthur Deyo, Mrs. M. Sutherland, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Markie and Mrs. Hutchins. Purchasing committee for refreshments, Mrs. Kenneth Clark, Mrs. George Segelken, Mrs. H. Harvey and Mrs. N. Phillips.

The ticket committee is composed of Mrs. Joel Woolsey, Mrs. Walter Born, Mrs. Peter Hoffman, Jr., Mrs. Harry Yarter and Mrs. Frank Rowe.

The entire cast of the show has been organized and offers an hour and a half of variety acts, including dancing, musical, vocal and comedy routines.

Refreshments will be available following the show. Tickets are now being sold by all members of the association, or may be purchased at the door the night of the show. A large crowd is expected.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Teamwork Will Pay Bridge Dividends

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

East was ready to bid two diamonds over North's response of one spade. It was possible, however, that hearts would turn out to be a better suit than diamonds. East therefore doubled to ask his partner to choose between the two unbid suits.

If West had four hearts, they would be safe in that suit. Otherwise, East would almost surely be able to scramble out safely at two diamonds, and would therefore be no worse off than if he had bid two diamonds to begin with.

East should have had a better hand for his takeout double, but it is perfectly possible to use shaded takeout doubles of this kind with an understanding partner. In this case, West could tell from the strong bidding of his vulnerable opponents that the double had been rather light. Hence West refrained from any energetic action.

The takeout double had an important effect on the opening lead. East had indicated support for both of the red suits, and it was unthinkable that East would use the takeout double unless he had good four-card support for had good real card support.

the unbid major. On the basis of this logical reasoning, West properly decided to open hearts.

When the queen of hearts held the first trick, the situation was quite clear to West. He continued with the ace of hearts, dropping declarer's ten. Then West led his last heart, enabling his partner to win two more tricks in the suit. East thereupon cashed the ace of diamonds to defeat the contract.

When the hand was played at the other table in a team match, East bid two diamonds instead of using the takeout double. West opened a diamond, having nothing to guide him to the killing heart lead.

East could have defeated the contract still by winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returning a low heart, but he had no way of discovering this defense. The opening diamond lead therefore enabled declarer to make his game contract.

DAY OF TRIUMPH

This year, in the midst of our fears and tensions, the meaning of Easter is particularly significant and comforting. Easter is the celebration of the triumph of love over hate, of truth over falsehood, of the spirit over death.

The enemies of Christ were certain that they had destroyed Him, that they had once and for all put an end to the disturbing doctrines of love and gentleness He taught to the people with whom He lived and prayed. Some of His closest followers had been driven to deny Him. One of them betrayed Him for a handful of silver. He was falsely accused, scourged, spat upon, ridiculed and put to death on the cross. He was laid to His rest in a borrowed tomb.

Yet 2,000 years later the doctrines He proclaimed are the guideposts of civilization. The lessons He taught are still the best hope of mankind for whom He willingly gave His life.

Easter is a glorious holiday for in the victory of Christ all men in all times were made victorious.

A book was returned to the Toledo, Ohio, library which had been borrowed in 1882. The news raises our hopes that some of the books we lent to friends and gave up as lost may eventually find their way back to our shelves.

MAINE'S UNIQUE CUSTOM

Maine Democrats are seeking to abolish the September state election, the only exception to the general American practice of voting in November. They believe they would stand more chance of winning if the national election took place at the same time, thus bringing out more voters. They recall that in 1940, 1944 and 1948 the Democratic presidential candidates were not far from carrying Maine, although the September elections had gone Republican by a large majority.

Early elections used to be more common. In Lincoln's day Pennsylvania and Ohio had October elections, at which both parties spent money lavishly to make a showing which might enhance their November chances. Vermont changed from September to November only a generation ago.

There are good arguments for electing state officers when no national election coincides to confuse the issues. The former September and October states found, however, that elections held then corrupted their citizens because floods of out-of-state money were poured in to improve party showings. How far Maine is influenced by these considerations is not yet certain. Perhaps the deciding factor may be force of habit.

President Eisenhower enjoys nothing more than a quiet game of golf—what is that often quoted remark about walking softly and carrying a golf stick?

THE DEADLIEST BOMB

First the ordinary bomb, then the block-buster, then the atomic bomb, now the hydrogen bomb. Although the last named has already developed far beyond its original form, even this may not be the last word in explosive weapons. We are already beginning to hear of the cobalt bomb.

This, possibly being worked on now, is not primarily a mass destructive weapon like the A-bomb. It is a means of prolonging for a considerable period the radio-activity of its two predecessors. In can hold radio-activity for several years, and make areas for practical purposes uninhabitable. Without it the deadly qualities of the A-bomb and H-bomb would soon be lost. The cobalt bomb can also be diluted, so to speak. If it is desired to make certain areas only temporarily dangerous, that can be done.

If a C-bomb fell on New York, our greatest city and port would become a place of deadly peril for a long time. Such a weapon could really ruin a nation, reducing it to a series of primitive settlements. The most unscrupulous might hesitate at using such a weapon, yet a madman might not hesitate.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE OPPENHEIMER CASE

In his television reply to Edward R. Murrow, Senator Joe McCarthy charged that research on the hydrogen (thermonuclear) bomb had been delayed 18 months. The response was immediate and it was generally unfavorable to McCarthy on the assumption that he was making a wild, baseless insinuation.

Representative W. Sterling Cole, Chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee of the Congress, immediately stepped into the breach and gave a forthright statement of the facts which established beyond doubt that there had been a delay. He, however, omitted any reference to Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, the Italian scientist of British citizenship, one of the world's principal experts in this field, who deserted from our side and went over to the Russians. He has since been engaged in developing the hydrogen bomb for Soviet Russia.

Bruno Pontecorvo and a group of Italian scientists, Enrico Fermi, Edoardo Amaldi, Franco Rasetti and Emilio Segre, believed that they had invented some phases of all this work on atomic fission and thermonuclear fusion. They had been assisted financially by a Dutch company and by an Italian entrepreneur, G. N. Giannini of Pasadena, Calif. They offered to sell their product to the United States Government for $10,000,000. This was a patent suit involving an Italian patent and an American patent granted in 1940. The Atomic Energy Commission at first rejected their demands but took the product of their work. They were unable to sue in the courts because everything about the matter was so very top secret that a trial would have been impossible. In 1953, the Atomic Energy Commission settled this issue for $300,000.

It was too late so far as Bruno Pontecorvo was concerned. He had taken his wares and given them to the other side.

I add this item to the inquiry into the affairs of J. Robert Oppenheimer because it is time that every phase of this problem be studied.

The Atomic Energy Commission itself may or may not be a suitable agency to investigate and reach conclusions about Oppenheimer and the entire A.E.C. scandal, which includes the Klaus Fuchs and Julius Rosenberg espionage operations. If Oppenheimer is innocent, no justice will be done him by closed sessions and a white-wash; if he is guilty of misconduct, stupidity or malfeasance, the public ought to know. The A.E.C. investigation will sooner or later be followed by a Congressional committee investigation.

The story about J. Robert Oppenheimer and his brother, Frank, has been going the rounds since 1946. Testifying before the House Committee on Un-American Activities on June 14, 1949, Frank Oppenheimer said:

"Mr. Russell (committee counsel). You stated this morning that when you joined the Communist Party you used the name Frank Folsom."

"Dr. Oppenheimer. May I correct that? I did not use the name Frank Folsom. When I joined the Communist Party, for some reason which I did not understand at the time and have never understood since, they requested that my right name and another name be written down. They seemed to me ludicrous. I never used any name but my own, and at the time, because of the fact it seemed so ludicrous, I wrote down the name of a California jail."

At the time of that hearing, the question of the relations of J. Robert Oppenheimer to Communist activities was freely discussed.

In January, 1946, a committee was appointed by Secretary of State James Byrnes, headed by the Under Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, to report on the international control of atomic energy. This committee appointed a Board of Consultants headed by David E. Lilienthal, then chairman of the TVA, and included among its members J. Robert Oppenheimer. This Board of Consultants prepared the Acheson-Lilienthal Report, which Bernard M. Baruch found inadequate when he was appointed to deal with the matter.

It seems to me that the Oppenheimer case opens the way to a full investigation into all that happened in the matter of the development of atomic fission as a weapon of war, including the espionage efforts of the Russians, their use of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, Julius Rosenberg, etc., the rejection by some scientists of the American advantage of priority, the political activities of the scientists, etc. Men make mistakes and in the hurry of warfare, they make serious mistakes. That is no crime if the motive was not treachery. What is wrong is to keep the people in ignorance and doubt.

That Body of Yours

EXAMINATION OF THE COLON

If you are having attacks of indigestion and your doctor finds that the symptoms do not follow any regular course as in a disease such as inflammation of the stomach, he may order an X-ray examination of the stomach (gastrium) and intestine.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, the chairman, Dr. Paul C. Hodges, Chicago, gives an address on the Roentgen (X-ray) examination of the colon—large intestine—in which he states that X-ray examination of the colon dates back to the previous century and to the earliest efforts of radiology. He states that it is a major clinical tool until the enema with opaque material displaced the giving of bismuth by mouth. Opaque materials are white chemicals which appear black under X-rays. It is because the last few inches of the colon (lower bowel) are so important in diagnosing disturbances in this region that the enema of the colon is now a part of the lower bowel investigation. To obtain this picture of the colon, careful preparations must be made.

Ideally the barium (barium sulphate—white chemical) should be administered only after the colon has been rendered completely free of feces (wastes in the colon), fluid and gas. Today in most hospitals simple old-fashioned castor oil is given the day before the procedure. The patient takes only clear fluids for 24 hours before the examination of the colon and then takes two ounces of castor oil 20 hours before the examination. It is important that the patient be instructed to take only clear fluids. He is allowed to take a small water, coffee or tea with sugar, carbonated beverages, sweetened fruit juices, and clear soups. He is not allowed to take cream soups, gravies, noodles, crackers, milk, cream, eggs and all solid foods. This method allows an out-patient to continue light work until the onset of catharsis (bowel-emptying) and makes it possible for the in-patient to undergo other examination and tests up to the hour of his X-ray appointment.

Dr. Dodge states further that so many patients so dislike castor oil that he has tried "sweetened" substances but has found none as effective as castor oil.

The barium sulphate used may be given in a glass of buttermilk which is not difficult to take. Also, most X-ray specialists purchase the barium direct from the manufacturer to be sure of getting the kind best suited for X-ray examination.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — The drought in southwestern states is pointing up several other acute farm problems to U. S. Department of Agriculture experts.

These are over and above the immediate damage to wheat and cotton acreage in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, eastern Colorado, western Kansas and southwestern Nebraska.

1. Indicated crop losses from the drought still aren't big enough to dent the huge U. S. farm surplus reserves.

There's an indicated 72-million-bushel wheat loss from the drought and a crop 200 million bushels below last year. But the U. S. wheat carryover of 8.5 million bushels is still enough to meet all domestic and foreign requirements for the crop year beginning next July 1.

So if not one grain of wheat were grown in the U. S. this year the country could still get by.

The cotton carryover of nearly nine million bales is almost double the requirement for a safe annual reserve. So again, if not one bale of cotton were picked this year, there would be no shortage.

These estimates are based on the assumption that there will be normal weather for the rest of the crop year. Good rains were reported in the dust bowl area for the April 10-12 weekend.

They have temporarily restored surface moisture, but sub-soil moisture is still far below normal.

If the U. S. were to go through another extra-dry year like 1934, these huge surpluses which now overhang the market would be looked on as more of a blessing than a curse.

2. Crop insurance payments to wheat farmers in the dust bowl are providing considerable immediate relief.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's crop insurance program is still on an experimental basis. The first experiments were made on wheat. The result is that practically all U. S. wheat acreage is now eligible for crop insurance. Cotton and corn lands are not insured as extensively.

In the drought and dust bowl area, for instance, nearly all the major wheat areas have been covered. This includes two counties in New Mexico, 18 in Texas, 23 in Oklahoma, 28 in Nebraska and nearly all of Kansas.

The premiums paid the government for this insurance range from $1.25 to $3.25 an acre. The total loss when a farmer's winter wheat is blown away entirely, and there is no chance to plant a late substitute crop, varies from $6.75 to $8.55 an acre.

Department of Agriculture claim adjusters are now in the area making settlements for farmers whose crops are a total loss. There is no indication what the total government loss will be.

Congress is still interested in trying to put crop insurance on a workable basis. For this year, $7.5 million was appropriated. For next year the House has approved just under $7 million.

3. Much of the damaged acreage is marginal grassland that never should have been plowed up and which should now be taken out of production.

In the six-state area worst hit by dust storms, about 3.5 million acres of grassland have been put in cultivation in the last 12 years. This is about 10 per cent of the 37 million acres under cultivation in the 82-million-acre drought area.

The people who put this grassland in wheat or cotton were generally the "drugstore" or "suitcase" farmers from town who had hoped to make a killing in the World War 2 and Korean war markets.

With abundant rainfall in this war period, the land produced without serious damage. This winter's lack of snow and rainfall, plus the normal winter winds, has been responsible for the dust storms that have now made the southwest a number one disaster area.

"From 90 to 95 per cent of this 3.5 million acres of land is sandy, shallow soil, unsuitable for crop production," says Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. "Any permanent solution of the dust bowl problem will include retirement of some land."

An effort is now being made to direct the soil conservation program to take about eight million acres of this marginal land out of production. This will accomplish two things:

It will save the land for grass, for which it is suited. It will reduce the acreage in which crops like wheat and cotton are planted and so help reduce the farm surpluses which provide today's most serious farm problem.

East was ready to bid two diamonds over North's response of one spade. It was possible, however, that hearts would turn out to be a better suit than diamonds. East therefore doubted to ask his partner to choose between the two unbid suits.

If West had four hearts, they would be able to scramble out safely at two diamonds, and would therefore be no worse off than if he had bid two diamonds to begin with.

East should have had a better hand for his takeout double, but it is perfectly possible to use shaded takeout doubles of this kind with an understanding partner. In this case, West could tell from the strong bidding of his vulnerable opponents that the double had been rather light. Hence West refrained from any energetic action.

The takeout double had an important effect on the opening lead. East had indicated support for both of the red suits, and it was unthinkable that East would use the takeout double unless he had good four-card support for the unbid major. On the basis of this logical reasoning, West properly decided to open hearts.

When the queen of hearts held the first trick, the situation was quite clear to West. He continued with the ace of hearts, dropping declarer's ten. Then West led his last heart, enabling his partner to win two more tricks in the suit. East thereupon cashed the ace of diamonds to defeat the contract.

When the hand was played at the other table in a team match, East bid two diamonds instead of using the takeout double. West opened a diamond, having nothing to guide him to the killing heart lead.

East could have defeated the contract still by winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds and returning a low heart, but he had no way of discovering this defense. The opening diamond lead therefore enabled declarer to make his game contract.

High School Students to Travel Abroad

The Misses Sande Galate of 16 Hewitt Place and Nancy Ellsworth of Port Ewen will leave for Europe in June to tour as delegates of Kingston High School Prisma Society. (Freeman photo).

Two KHS Students Thrilled About Their Europe Summer Visit

By MARIANNE DAVIS
Freeman Society Editor

Two enthusiastic teen-agers have been chosen by Prisma Society of Kingston High School to be junior ambassadors to Europe this summer. The girls, Miss Nancy Ellsworth and Miss Sande Galate, are "excited and thrilled" at the prospect of living with families abroad for six weeks, "and sharing in whatever activities they do during the summer."

This plan of sending students abroad is not a new one, and Prisma has been doing it for four years. The girls' trips are financed partially by the proceeds from a magazine drive conducted by the society earlier in the year. The American Field Service, which is the prime sponsor of this program, has a fund which goes into a pool for all the young travelers. "We'll only need spending money for the summer, and will have to pay our expenses from here to the ship," explained Nancy, when interviewed in the Guidance Office of Kingston High School recently.

Nancy volunteered the information, "My parents are happy for this opportunity. There are six children in my family, and with college and all, I wouldn't be able to do it any other way."

Best Letters Chosen

"The American Field Service investigates the families in Europe before they send any students to live with them for the summer," said dark-haired, vivacious Sande. "We were chosen by the junior class of Prisma, then had to write letters explaining why we want to go to Europe."

To the question of why, fair-haired Nancy answered, "It's been so long since I wrote the letter... but I've always liked to travel... and that seems reason enough." Sande added hers, "I originally wanted to go to France because I like the country and the language. But now that I've found I'll be going to Germany, I'm really thrilled" and her smile was wide and happy. "I've been advised to learn German. I'm starting it, because you are supposed to know some of the language of the country. Yes, the families all know English."

Nancy's choice is Holland. "I've always had an interest in the Scandinavian countries, because I like skiing. I guess." But since summer isn't the time for skiing in Europe, "I'm glad I'll be going to Holland. I hear it's supposed to be so clean and picturesque." Sande added there, and she told me about the country.

Heard Many Travel Tips

These KHS juniors have been picking up bits of travel information from many other students for Sande added, "Chloe Trantou, she's here from Greece this year with the AFS, told me about the boat trip. She had a wonderful time. I can hardly wait."

Both girls knew Betty Voss who was a student from Holland at KHS for about a year. "She didn't say much about the country, though," said Nancy, "because she grew up there during the war," then she brightened, "but I hear it's different over there now."

Special Dance Invocation to Be Presented At YWCA Centennial Dinner Thursday Night

All the present active groups will be represented at the birthday Centennial Dinner of the YWCA to be held Thursday at 6:30 p. m. to promote the real party spirit of the event. Many groups which were formerly associated with the Y are making this dinner a reason for a reunion.

Mrs. Ralph D. Booth, a member of the National Board and Centennial Chairman, will be the speaker. An invitation is issued to anyone in the community who is interested in attending this dinner, both to the men and women. Reservations for the dinner must be made by Monday.

A program of entertainment has been prepared under the supervision of three Y directors, Mrs. Dorothy Narel, Mrs. William Rylance and Mrs. Bert Bishop.

Those in the singing groups are, from Tri Hi Club, the Misses Barbara Chmura, Margaret Danford, Jackie Fiore and Jackie Haulenbeck; from the So Yse Club, Debra Albrecht and Audrey Cheney. These girls will perform under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Narel.

Mrs. Rylance will accompany Mrs. Donald E. Brown in the violin solo, Canzonetta, D'Ambrasio. Mrs. Bishop has prepared a program of dance, featuring the Misses Sheila Blakely, Linda Etchells, Carolyn Hull, Jean Eng, Gay Lasher, Kay Mustaparta, one of the first Prisma girls to be sent abroad, showed slides of her trip through Germany. "They were so beautiful," said Sande. "I hadn't realized before what a beautiful country Germany is."

"If the family travels, we'll travel," said Nancy in response to a query about her plans for the summer. "We do exactly what the people do, eat what they eat, and live the normal life of their children."

"Why, some of these people even give up their summer vacations to have us visit them," said Sande.

Both Active in Clubs

Both junior Misses have some travel behind them in the U. S. to prepare them for the proposed trip. And both are active in many extra-curricular clubs and organizations to give them a well-rounded outlook on school life to share with their opposites across the ocean.

Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth of Port Ewen, is a junior member of Prisma, Leaders Club which features athletic contests and exhibitions, and Ski Club, where she originally learned how to ski. French Club helps her interest in languages, and Student Council work will enable her to explain student government to the overseas youngsters, many of whom do not know of this system.

A member of the 4-H Club, she has won prizes for pies, a fact which Sande supplied for the modest Nancy. She plans to attend Cornell University after KHS graduation, but isn't sure just what course she'll follow.

Girls Interested in "Foreign Food" She's sure that she "likes to eat," and has never tried any "foreign food." The adventures

Answer in Store

Washington, April 17 (AP)—A "bill of particulars" by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) against top army officials today was reported in store for his Senate investigations subcommittee when it goes into closed-door session Monday.

McCarthy himself was vacationing in Texas. But he was expected back in Washington over the weekend to attend subcommittee talks which may determine whether the group can, as it now plans, launch on Thursday a public, televised search for the truth among the charges and countercharges involved. Word from his associates was that McCarthy "will be prepared to submit on Monday a written statement of specifications" denying and denouncing accusations the army has leveled at him and a group of aides, and spelling out countercharges McCarthy is raising against top army officials.

Plans Faster Travel

New Haven, Conn., April 17 (AP)—The New York, New Haven and Hartford's new boss is thinking in terms of a faster railroad that will recapture some of the passengers it has lost to other forms of transportation. The new boss is Patrick B. McGinnis, New York financier who emerged the victor by a narrow margin yesterday after a marathon stockholders' meeting that had begun two days before.

His forces elected 11 of the road's 21 directors. Ten were elected by the forces of Frederick C. "Buck" Dumaine, Jr., of Boston, president of the road until the new board of directors holds its first meeting, probably next Tuesday or Wednesday. They are expected to put McGinnis in.

Scientists Give Views

Seattle, April 17 (AP)—Pacific Northwest residents who have been reporting a mysterious wave of automobile windshield damage were faced today with a report by a committee of scientists that said in effect "it isn't so." The scientists, all from the University of Washington physics, chemistry and meteorology departments, qualified their denial slightly, but said: "The most likely explanation at this moment is that the pitting is the result of normal driving conditions in which small objects strike the windshields of cars."

Lacked Death Try Courage

New Haven, Conn., April 17 (AP)—County Coroner James J. Corrigan says Charles Spencer "confessed very freely" that he killed his wife, made a bizarre suicide attempt after her death and spent hours trying to summon the courage to jump over Niagara Falls. Corrigan began an inquest into the death of Margaret Spencer, 38-year-old daughter of a retired Yale botany professor, soon after her estranged husband was brought here by police yesterday from Niagara Falls, N. Y., where he had been arrested Wednesday. Spencer, a 38-year-old carpenter, testified at the inquest in a "very frank, honest and outspoken" manner, the coroner said, relating that he beat his wife to death with a claw hammer in her parents' home here about 1 a. m. April 7.

Natives May Do Job

Washington, April 17 (AP)—The air force is planning to replace 43,000 of its uniformed personnel stationed overseas with 31,000 native civilians in what it calls a "native son" project. The air force told a House Appropriations subcommittee recently it hopes to do this within the next year. The testimony was made public today.

H. Lee White, assistant secretary of the air force, said an airman who costs about $4,000 a year to maintain can be replaced by a Japanese at $800 a year, a Frenchman at $2,100 a year or an Englishman at $1,700 a year.

Soldiers Find Paradise

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany (AP)—Being a GI on duty in this Bavarian mountain city is as tough as getting $10 bills free. Most soldiers here look like recruiting ads. A big U. S. Army rest and recreation center is busy constantly handling soldier visitors. But for the boys whose job it is to stay here a weekend pass can mean anything from a chamois hunt to a 60-mile an hour trip down a mountain on skis.

Flying Goes On

Washington, April 17 (AP)—The air force says it is flying as many hours in Korea now as when there was fighting there. Maj. Gen. M. Asensio told a House Appropriations subcommittee recently—much to the air force's surprise—there has been "no diminution in the requirements for flying hours by virtue of the cessation of hostilities." Asensio said the air force put in 375,000 flying hours in Korea last year at an average cost of roughly $150 an hour.

Nixon Is . . .

Eisenhower on several recent occasions.

In outlining his views, Nixon repeated Eisenhower's words that "we cannot afford any retreat in Asia."

His statement, made yesterday to newsmen who were cautioned not to make public his name, included a prediction that the French government is "going to be putting on the pressure" to negotiate an Indochina truce with the Communists at the April 26 Geneva Conference.

Fears Truce Plan

It was his opinion, the official said in a clear indication of American opposition to such a move, that such a truce would deliver Indochina to the Communists.

Although the official's declaration was regarded in some quarters as reflecting a National Security Council decision, the purported policy was challenged immediately by Republicans as well as Democrats.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), a Senate Foreign Relations Committee member, said in an interview he doesn't believe any decision has been made to use American troops in Indochina under any circumstances.

"If we have such a policy, I'd like to know about it," Hickenlooper said, "but I don't think we have."

Would Vote Against It

Sen. Long (D-La.), a former Armed Services Committee member, said no U. S. troops should be sent to Indochina without a congressional resolution approving it. And he said he would vote against any such resolution.

President Eisenhower told his newsmen on Feb. 10 that no one could be more bitterly opposed to getting the United States involved in a hot war in Indochina than he was. Consequently, he said, every move he authorized was calculated, as far as humans could do it, to make certain that does not happen.

The storm over the Indochina statement overshadowed a controversy over President Eisenhower's pledge yesterday that the United States will maintain a "fair share" of troops in Europe for joint defense of the continent "while a threat to that area exists."

To Encourage French

The President's declaration, issued from his vacation headquarters at Augusta, Ga., was addressed to the prime ministers of the six nations involved in the projected European Defense Community (EDC). U. S. officials indicated it was aimed at encouraging the reluctant French to join the organization.

Chairman J. Saltonstall (R-Mass.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said he was asking to describe the "official nature of the commitment."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), a foreign relations committee member, predicted there will be discussion in the Senate of what he stated was the administration's failure to tell members of the armed services and foreign relations committees about the announcement. Administration sources said it had been discussed with both Republican and Democratic leaders.

On the other hand several legislators in both parties expressed the view that at least some American troops must be kept in Europe under present circumstances.

Chairman W. Fulbright (R-Wis.) of the foreign relations committee said Eisenhower's pledge is "just a restatement" of U. S. policy set in 1951.

suggested, that newspapers provide gratis the listings of "programs for which the broadcasters are paid by commercial establishments from advertising appropriations for which those same newspapers are competing."

Nashville broadcasters rejected a proposal of the newspapers, he said, that the stations share the cost of the listing at considerably less than regular advertising rates "and in fact at less than costs the papers to print them."

The stations declared in a formal statement that they considered the publication to be the responsibility of newspapers.

The newspapers accordingly dropped the listings on Jan. 17, Harwell said. Since then they have received 320 telephone calls and seven letters, and lost 76 subscribers. The daily editions have not lost circulation, Harwell reported, and the Sunday Tennessee has increased its subscription list by 5,960.

News Is Covered

Meanwhile he said the Radio-TV logs are being carried in a weekly legal newspaper, in the papers of smaller towns around Nashville, in newly established Radio-TV guides, and in leaflets given away by program sponsors mostly at grocery stores. He said the broadcasters rejected a proposal from an advertiser that he carry the listing in newspapers at his own expense, at regular advertising rates.

"When it comes to news on the air—such as a presidential speech or the McCarthy-Stevens hearing—of course we print them," Harwell said. "But the routine listings are something else again."

"When the local movie theatres have Audrey Hepburn or Jimmy Stewart on their screens, they pay to announce the fact in the papers."

"Then why should papers tell the public for free where they can find—or not find, which is often more important—Arthur Godfrey or Liberace?"

Peal of Bells Ends Lent

Vatican City, April 17 (AP)—The giant bronze bells of St. Peter's basilica rang joyously today, announcing the end of Lent and the beginning of the Easter vigil. Throughout Rome, bells were rung as celebration of Mass services reached the "Gloria." Here, as throughout the Christian world, preparations were being made for the celebration tomorrow of Christ's resurrection.

one official is known in some circles to be a gambler."

This official, said Cole, is in a responsible job. He added: "I had his situation in mind when I began the investigation."

FHA leadership has been shaken around considerably since charges came to light Monday night that some apartment builders raked in an aggregate of many millions of dollars by floating inflated construction loans guaranteed by the government under a program that ended during the Truman administration.

Cheating Cited

Also involved are allegations that fast-talking home repair salesmen roamed in packs from city to city, cheating homeowners who at their prompting obtained government-insured loans to finance improvements.

Complaints of such widespread fleecing operations have been coming in right up to the present, and Cole said former FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Holliday was "aware" of the situation, but did not act on it.

An unexpected White House announcement Monday night that Holliday's resignation had been accepted was the first official indication that something was amiss in FHA. The White House said Holliday quit so somebody else could handle the investigation of the agency. Eisenhower subsequently named Norman P. Mason, a Massachusetts lumberman, to head the agency temporarily.

Planes Plaster Enemy

French warplanes plastered enemy encampments and supply depots in the rugged country northwest of Dien Bien Phu and also to the northeast and east. French artillery leveled most of it fire on Vietminh convoy routes and anti-aircraft positions in the hills.

The French high command announced today a steady stream of paratroopers and ammunition and war material had been parachuted into Dien Bien Phu.

The high command said "volunteer paratroopers" from various army units had been dropped into the fortress. A spokesman said this was not because the French were short on regular paratroopers but they were conserving their reserves.

In the Red river delta, meanwhile, 150 rebels were killed in a big mop-up operation around Thai Binh 55 miles southeast of Hanoi.

The French said the Vietminh had failed to prevent them supplying their northwestern stronghold and reinforcing it whenever they wished.

former chairman of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee and now its vice-chairman, was asked on a CBS radio program last night whether disloyalty figured in the H-bomb delay.

"I wouldn't pass judgment on that particular matter at this time," Hickenlooper replied. "I will say that there were definite and powerful objections to proceeding with the H-bomb program that is as far as I would care to go."

Oppenheimer's name was not mentioned and Hickenlooper said he was not prepared to make a statement "on the motives of any particular individual."

Washington, April 17 (AP)—Home building is holding up well despite the lag in some other businesses. Washington, April 17 (AP)—A "bill of particulars" by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) against top army officials today was expected to answer questions raised by a subcommittee when it goes into closed-door session Monday.

McCarthy himself was vacationing in Texas. But he was expected back in Washington over the weekend to attend subcommittee talks which may determine whether the group can, as it now plans, launch on Thursday a public, televised search for the truth among the charges and countercharges involved. Word from his associates was that McCarthy "will be prepared to submit on Monday a written statement of specifications" denying and denouncing accusations the army has leveled at him and a group of aides, and spelling out countercharges McCarthy is raising against top army officials.

Plans Faster Travel

New Haven, Conn., April 17 (AP)—The New York, New Haven and Hartford's new boss is thinking in terms of a faster railroad that will recapture some of the passengers it has lost to other forms of transportation. The new boss is Patrick B. McGinnis, New York financier who emerged the victor by a narrow margin yesterday after a marathon stockholders' meeting that had begun two days before.

His forces elected 11 of the road's 21 directors. Ten were elected by the forces of Frederick C. "Buck" Dumaine, Jr., of Boston, president of the road until the new board of directors holds its first meeting, probably next Tuesday or Wednesday. They are expected to put McGinnis in.

New Haven, Conn., April 17 (AP)—The New York, New Haven and Hartford's new boss is thinking in terms of a faster railroad that will recapture some of the passengers it has lost to other forms of transportation. The new boss is Patrick B. McGinnis, New York financier who emerged the victor by a narrow margin yesterday after a marathon stockholders' meeting that had begun two days before.

His forces elected 11 of the road's 21 directors. Ten were elected by the forces of Frederick C. "Buck" Dumaine, Jr., of Boston, president of the road until the new board of directors holds its first meeting, probably next Tuesday or Wednesday. They are expected to put McGinnis in.

Nixon Is . . .

Eisenhower on several recent occasions.

In outlining his views, Nixon repeated Eisenhower's words that "we cannot afford any retreat in Asia."

His statement, made yesterday to newsmen who were cautioned not to make public his name, included a prediction that the French government is "going to be putting on the pressure" to negotiate an Indochina truce with the Communists at the April 26 Geneva Conference.

Fears Truce Plan

It was his opinion, the official said in a clear indication of American opposition to such a move, that such a truce would deliver Indochina to the Communists.

Although the official's declaration was regarded in some quarters as reflecting a National Security Council decision, the purported policy was challenged immediately by Republicans as well as Democrats.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), a Senate Foreign Relations Committee member, said in an interview he doesn't believe any decision has been made to use American troops in Indochina under any circumstances.

"If we have such a policy, I'd like to know about it," Hickenlooper said, "but I don't think we have."

Would Vote Against It

Sen. Long (D-La.), a former Armed Services Committee member, said no U. S. troops should be sent to Indochina without a congressional resolution approving it. And he said he would vote against any such resolution.

President Eisenhower told his news conference on Feb. 10 that no one could be more bitterly opposed to getting the United States involved in a hot war in Indochina than he was. Consequently, he said, every move he authorized was calculated, as far as humans could do it, to make certain that does not happen.

The storm over the Indochina statement overshadowed a controversy over President Eisenhower's pledge yesterday that the United States will maintain a "fair share" of troops in Europe for joint defense of the continent "while a threat to that area exists."

To Encourage French

The President's declaration, issued from his vacation headquarters at Augusta, Ga., was addressed to the prime ministers of the six nations involved in the projected European Defense Community (EDC). U. S. officials indicated it was aimed at encouraging the reluctant French to join the organization.

Chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said he was asking the Senate of why he was to describe the "official nature of the commitment."

Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), a foreign relations committee member, predicted there will be discussion in the Senate of why he said was the administration's failure to tell members of the armed services and foreign relations committees about the announcement. Administration sources said it had been discussed with both Republican and Democratic leaders.

On the other hand several legislators in both parties expressed the view that at least some American troops must be kept in Europe under present circumstances, and Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) of the foreign relations committee said Eisenhower's pledge is "just a restatement" of U. S. policy set in 1951.

one official is known in some circles to be a gambler.

This official, said Cole, is in a responsible job. He added: "I had his situation in mind when I began the investigation."

FHA leadership has been shaken around considerably since charges came to light Monday night that some apartment builders raked in an aggregate of many millions of dollars by floating inflated construction loans guaranteed by the government under a program that ended during the Truman administration.

Cheating Cited

Also involved are allegations that fast-talking home repair salesmen roamed in packs from city to city, cheating householders who at their prompting obtained government-insured loans to finance improvements.

Complaints of such widespread fleeing operations have been coming in right up to the present, and Cole said former FHA Commissioner Guy T. O. Holliday was "aware" of the situation, but did not act on it.

An unexpected White House announcement Monday night that Holliday's resignation had been accepted was the first official indication that something was amiss in FHA. The White House said Holliday quit so somebody else could handle the investigation of the agency. Eisenhower subsequently named Norman P. Mason, a Massachusetts lumberman, to head the agency temporarily.

Yukon Eric Downs Hans Herman

Rallies to Win After Losing The First Fall

Yukon Eric, the Fairbanks, Alaska giant who tips the Fairbanks at 275, disposed of Hans Herman, the new German star, in two out of three falls last night at the municipal auditorium.

More than three quarters of a ton of pachyderms shook the auditorium rafters loose in three bouts, with better than a quarter ton on the move when Eric and Herman were tossing each other around in the main event.

Herman scored a quick slam over Yukon to grab the first fall in three minutes flat. The big Alaskan gained the equalizer in 7:45 with his famous bear hug.

Referee Joe Vozdik disqualified Herman for unethical tactics after 3:15 of the third fall to make Yukon Eric the winner.

Wright Wins

Bearcat Wright, a 266-pound negro behemoth out of Omaha, Neb., polished off Willie Greb, 234, Boston neovener in straight falls of the semi-final bout.

Wright employed a scissors to wring a concession from Greb in 15:10 for the first fall. Twelve minutes later a rolling, short arm scissors, rendered Greb hors de combat for the evening.

Nick Roberts, 242, Tampa, Fla., and Joe Christie, 233, Detroit, travelled 30 lively minutes to a draw in the curtain raiser.

The officials were: Tony Muscatello and Willie Glickman, judges; Joe Vozdik, referee; Jim Purrell, timer; Dick McCarthy, announcer.

A tag team match between Bill Melby-Jack Witzig and Art Neilson-Reggie Lisowski will headline a card set for Wednesday, April 21.

New Rule Halts Yonkers Racing Because of Rain

Yonkers, April 17 (AP)—A new rule of the U. S. Trotting Association was invoked because of rain last night at Yonkers Raceway, and brought about the cancellation of the program.

A three-man committee comprised of presiding Judge G. John Warren of Buffalo, and representatives of horsemen and management met to vote on the problem. Heretofore decisions on whether to race in unfavorable weather was the sole prerogative of the management, subject to approval by the state stewards.

At today's session Bill Haughton, trainer-driver representing the horsemen, voted against racing. Fred S. Buck, assistant to the president of the Yonkers, said he would not oppose wishes of the horsemen. Warren made it unanimous. It was the first time the new rule had been invoked since the rule was passed a month ago.

Langlois 6-5 Over Basilio

Syracuse, April 17 (AP)—Carmen Basilio and Pierre Langlois, both in top fighting form, met tonight in a 10-round nationally televised (ABC) middleweight bout. The tricky Frenchman is a 6-5 favorite.

Langlois is expected to scale 155. Basilio, a Canastota farm boy, will weigh about 150.

The 9 p. m. EST match—a return bout—shapes up like an old-fashioned grudge fight. More than 7,000 fans are expected to crowd the Syracuse War Memorial to watch the boys try to erase the marked draw decision that ranked their other meeting here last December.

The Chesapeake Stakes, now run at Laurel, formerly was held at Havre de Grace.

Banner Year Seen For Rookies; A's Spook Jacobs Best to Date

The four-day old major league baseball season is still in the budding stage but it looks as if it will be a big rookie year.

With yesterday an open date, no club has played more than three games but already 47 first year men have seen action. A batch of others, including such highly touted freshmen like Ray Katt, Ed Bailey, Reno Bertoia, Joe Frazier, Chuck Harmon, Arnie Portacarrero and Tom Brewer, are almost certain to get into the lineup soon. Rudy Regalado, Cleveland's spring sensation, has been used only as a pinch runner.

It's hardly fair to make any comparison at this early stage of the campaign, but the most outstanding performances thus far have been turned in by Forrest (Spook) Jacobs and Vic Power of the Philadelphia Athletics; Gene Baker of the Chicago Cubs; Frank Bolling and Bill Tuttle of Detroit; Bob Skinner, Curt Roberts of Pittsburgh; Bill Skovron of the New York Yankees; Harry Aganis of the Boston Red Sox and Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The majority of the rookie pitchers who have had an opportunity to work so far haven't been particularly effective. Jack Harshman, Chicago White Sox southpaw, is the only one to get a starting assignment and he failed to last through the fourth inning. However, kids like the Giants' Mario Picono, Washington's Camillo Pasqual, the Red Sox' Tom Herrin and the Athletics' Bill Tuttle have looked good in relief. Three rookie hurlers—the Yankees' Bob Grim, the Redlegs' Corky Valentine and the A's Bob Trice—were scheduled to start today.

Jacobs Impresses

Jacobs, the pint-sized second baseman who was drafted from the Brooklyn Dodgers' farm system, has been impressive both at bat and in the field. He's rapped six hits in nine times at bat and has handled 12 chances flawlessly. Power, the Negro outfielder who led the American Assn. in batting with the Yankees' Kansas City farm club last year, has three hits in nine times at bat. He distinguished himself Thursday with a remarkable throw from deep centerfield to nail a Yankee runner at the plate.

Second baseman Baker, who along with shortstop Ernie Banks, form the Cubs' new double play combination, also has gotten off to a quick start. He's collected four hits in seven times at bat including a double and home run and has driven in three runs. Banks is off to a slow start.

Detroit's rookie trio of second baseman Bolling and outfielders Tuttle and Al Kaline have pleased Manager Harry Hutchinson so far. One of Bolling's three hits in three games has been a home run.

He accepted 15 changes without an error, has taken part in three double plays and has stolen a base. Tuttle also has three hits, a home run and a stolen base. Kaline's three hits are all singles.

New Pirate Batch

Six Pirate rookies have received big league baptism. They are shortstop Gail Allie, pitcher Nelson Skinn, first baseman Skinner, second baseman Roberts and outfielders Jerry Lynch and Gail Henley. Skinner has done everything asked of him, rapping two singles in two pinch hit appearances. Roberts has made a hit in each of his two games, a double and triple. Lynch drove in a pair of runs against the Dodgers Thursday with a bases-loaded single. Allie has looked impressive on defense but weak at the plate. King hurled a scoreless relief inning against the Dodgers.

Skovron, who won the Yankee first base job against lefthanded pitching with his spectacular slugging in spring exhibition games, has only two hits in 10 at bats but one is a homer and the other a triple. Aganis, in his first start at first base for the Red Sox, walked a triple and single, Moon, who replaced Enos Slaughter in the Cardinal outfield, has two hits in two games, a homer and double. Milwaukee's highly rated Henry Aaron, went hitless in five times at bat opening day but cracked two hits in his second game.

Betty Hicks Leads Zaharias Open

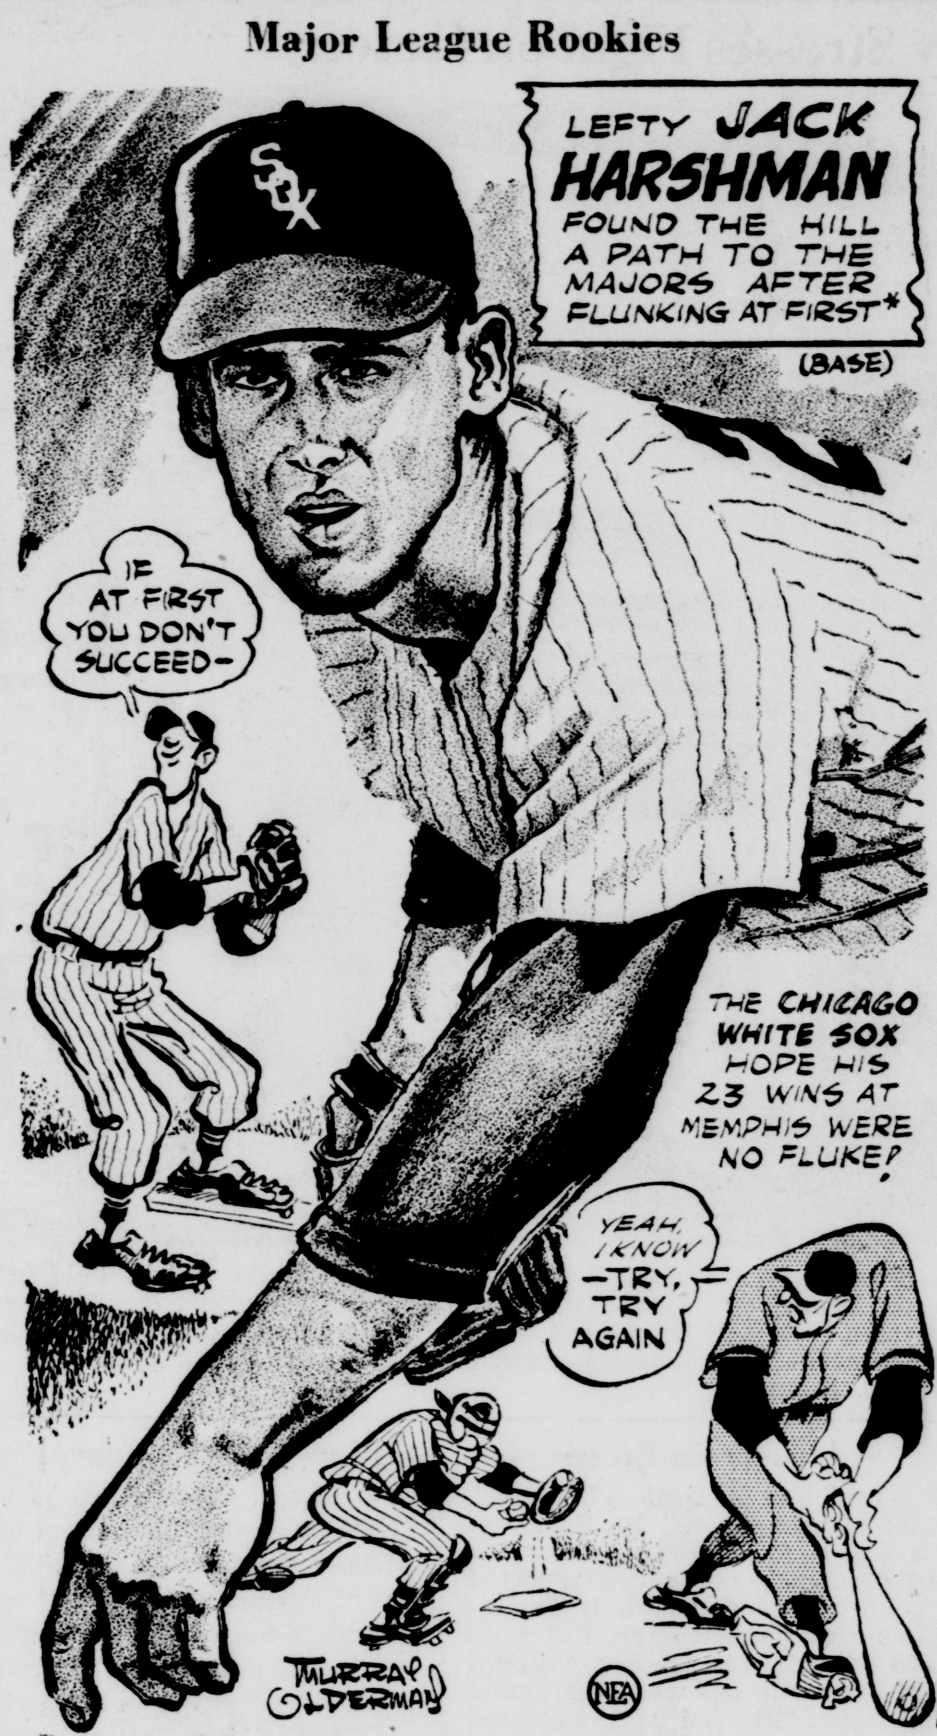

Beaumont, Tex., April 17 (AP)—North Carolina's Betty Hicks, seeking her first tournament championship on the PGA tour, led the Babe Zaharias Open with a one-over-par 74 today while the Babe, obviously playing mostly on nerve, plodded along two strokes back.

Tiring quickly, the Babe, sentimental favorite of the gallery to win the tournament named in her honor for the second straight time, took a 76 in the opening round yesterday and was tied with Louise Suggs, the smooth little swinger from Atlanta, Ga., for second place.

Mrs. Zaharias has said this will be her last tournament for at least six weeks, Monday she will enter a local hospital for a crucial physical checkup.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano Sports Editor

Robert Beaumont, who emerged from Uncle Sam's service, wearing the spangles of a qualified basketball official, sheds some light on the historic five-shot foul call on Bill Haer during the recent Kingston tournament.

If you will recall, the high school flash stopped to the foul line and proceeded to attempt five straight free throws. Earlier reports on the exact components of the call appear to have been slightly garbled.

Here is the explanation straight from the horse's mouth: "Haber's five foul shots were due to these reasons: a multiple foul was called in the last three minutes of the game while the foulee was in the act of shooting."

"In any case, no more than two foul tris may be awarded at this point. A technical foul was then called, followed by a second technical. That made a total of four fouls due Haber. On one of the shots a violation was called for disconcerting the free thrower. Hence, the extra try making a total of five. That should allay any misconceptions of incurred decisions on that play..." Yukon Eric Downs Hans Herman

Yukon Eric, the Fairbanks, Alaska giant who tips the Fairbanks at 275, disposed of Hans Herman, the new German star, in two out of three falls last night at the municipal auditorium.

More than three quarters of a ton of pachyderms shook the auditorium rafters loose in three bouts, with better than a quarter ton on the move when Eric and Herman were tossing each other around in the main event.

Herman scored a quick slam on Yukon to grab the first fall in three minutes flat. The big Alaskan gained the equalizer in 7:45 with his famous bear hug.

Referee Joe Vozdik disqualified Herman for unethical tactics after 3:15 of the third fall to make Yukon Eric the winner.

Wright Wins

Bearcat Wright, a 266-pound negro behemoth out of Omaha, Neb., polished off Willie Greb, 234, Boston newcomer in straight falls of the semi-final bout.

Wright employed a scissors to bring a concession from Greb in 15:10 for the first fall. Twelve minutes later a rolling, short arm scissors, rendered Greb hors de combat for the evening.

Nick Roberts, 242, Tampa, Fla., and Joe Christie, 235, Detroit, travelled 30 lively minutes to a draw in the curtain raiser.

The officials were: Tony Muscatello and Willie Glickman, judges; Joe Vozdik, referee; Jim Purcell, timer; Dick McCarthy, announcer.

A tag team match between Bill Melby-Jack Witzig and Art Neilson-Reggie Lisowski will headline a card set for Wednesday, April 21.

Langlois 6-5 Over Basilio

Syracuse, April 17 (AP)—Carmen Basilio and Pierre Langlois, both in top fighting form, met tonight in a 10-round nationally televised (ABC) middleweight bout. The tricky Frenchman is a 6-5 favorite.

Langlois is expected to scale 155. Basilio, a Canastota farm boy will weigh about 150.

The 9 p. m. EST match—a return bout—shapes up like an old-fashioned grudge fight. More than 7,000 fans are expected to crowd the Syracuse War Memorial to watch the boys try to erase the ranking draw decision that marked their other meeting here last December.

The Chesapeake Stakes, now run at Laurel, formerly was held at Havre de Grace.

Banner Year Seen For Rookies;
A's Spook Jacobs Best to Date

The four-day old major league baseball season is still in the budding stage but it looks as if it will be a big rookie year.

With yesterday an open date, no club has played more than three games but already 47 first year men have seen action. A batch of others, including such highly touted freshmen like Ray Katt, Ed Bailey, Reno Bertoia, Joe Frazier, Chuck Harmon, Arnie Portacarrero and Tom Brewer, are almost certain to get into the lineup soon. Rudy Regalado, Cleveland's spring sensation, has been used only as a pinch runner.

It's hardly fair to make any comparison at this early stage of the campaign, but the most outstanding performances thus far have been turned in by Forrest (Spook) Jacobs and Vic Power of the Philadelphia Athletics; Gene Baker of the Chicago Cubs; Frank Bolling and Bill Tuttle of Detroit; Bob Skinner, Curt Roberts of Pittsburgh; Bill Skowron of the New York Yankees; Harry Agganis of the Boston Red Sox and Wally Moon of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The majority of the rookie pitchers who have had an opportunity to work so far haven't been particularly effective. Jack Harshman, Chicago White Sox southpaw, is the only one to get a starting assignment and he failed to last through the fourth inning. However, kids like the Giants' Mario Picone, Washington's Camillo Pascual, the Red Sox' Tom Herrin and the Athletics' Bill Upton have looked good in relief. Three rookie hurlers—the Yankees' Bob Grim, the Redlegs' Corky Valentine and the A's Bob Trice—were scheduled to start today.

Jacobs Impresses

Jacobs, the pint-sized second baseman who was drafted from the Brooklyn Dodgers' farm system, has been impressive both at bat and in the field. He's rapped six hits in nine times at bat and has handled 12 chances flawlessly. Power, the Negro outfielder who led the American Assn. in batting with the Yankees, Kansas City Royals last year, has three hits in nine times at bat. He distinguished himself Thursday with a remarkable throw from deep centerfield to nail a Yankee runner at the plate.

Second baseman Baker, who along with shortstop Ernie Banks, form the Cubs' new double play combination, also has gotten off to a quick start. He's collected four hits in seven times at bat including a double and home run and has driven in three runs. Banks is off to a slow start.

Detroit's rookie trio of second basemen, a homer and double, Milwaukee's highly rated Henry Aaron, went hitless in five times at bat opening day but cracked two hits in his second game.

New Rule Halts Yonkers Racing Because of Rain

Yonkers, April 17 (AP)—A new rule of the U. S. Trotting Association was invoked because of rain last night at Yonkers Raceway, and brought about the cancellation of the program.

A three-man committee comprised of presiding Judge G. John Warren of Buffalo, and representatives of horsemen and management met to vote on the problem. Heretofore decisions on whether to race in unfavorable weather was the sole prerogative of the management, subject to approval by the state steward.

At today's session Bill Houghton, trainer-driver representing the horsemen, voted against racing. Fred S. Butler, assistant to the president of the Yonkers, said he would not oppose wishes of the horsemen. Warren made it unanimous. It was the first time the new formula had been invoked since the rule was passed a month ago.

Betty Hicks Leads Zaharias Open

Mrs. Zaharias has said this will be her last tournament for at least six weeks, Monday she will enter a local hospital for a crucial physical checkup.

New Pirate Batch

Six Pirate rookies have received big league baptism. They are shortstop Gail Allie, pitcher Nelson King, first baseman Skinner, second baseman Roberts and outfielders Jerry Lynch and Gail Henley. Skinner has done everything asked of him, rapping two singles in two pinch hit appearances. Roberts has made a hit in each of his two games, a double and triple. Lynch drove in a pair of runs against the Dodgers Thursday with a bases-loaded single. Allie has looked impressive on defense but weak at the plate. King hurled a scoreless relief inning against the Dodgers.

Betty Hicks Leads Zaharias Open

Beaumont, Tex., April 17 (AP)—North Carolina's Betty Hicks, seeking her first tournament championship on the PGA tour, led the Babe Zaharias Open with a one-over-par 74 today while the Babe, obviously playing mostly on nerve, plodded along two strokes back.

Tiring quickly, the Babe, sentimental favorite of the gallery to win the tournament named in her honor for the second straight time, took a 76 in the opening round yesterday and was tied with Louise Suggs, the smooth little swinger from Atlanta, Ga., for second place.

Mrs. Zaharias has said this will be her last tournament for at least six weeks, Monday she will enter a local hospital for a crucial physical checkup.

Tiny Tony Fires Shot Heard Round The Hockey World

Detroit, April 17 (AP)—Tony Leswick, smallest player on either team, fired a big "sudden death" overtime goal last night to give the Detroit Red Wings a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Canadiens—and wrest the Stanley Cup from the fighting Frenchmen.

The 5-foot-7 forward, paid primarily to play defensive hockey, hit the jackpot with a 40-foot screen shot at 4:29 of the overtime period in the seventh and deciding game of the cup playoffs. Until his playoff goal, the Red Wings were wailing under furious pressure by the Canadiens, seeking to climax one of hockey's great comebacks.

Leswick's sudden shot, through a tangle of players, smashed the comeback hopes and gave the Red Wings their sixth Stanley Cup championship. It also capped a brilliant season which saw them capture their sixth straight National Hockey League title, an unprecedented feat.

"Sure, I was scared in the overtime," said Tommy Ivan, the Red Wings' dapper little coach. "I thought the red light was never going to go on for us. The Canadiens kept getting stronger and stronger."

Leswick's winning tally cut off a comeback which saw Montreal square the best-of-seven series at three games apiece after being down 3 to 1.

and paying out in dividends. Each of the hundreds of stocks listed on various exchange must, of course, be judged on their own merits, not on what the stock market as a whole is doing.

In the middle of last September, the stock market hit the low of the year. In the following seven months to date, the market has gone up a little more than 20 per cent as measured by The Associated Press average of 60 stocks.

No major reaction has taken place during that time. There have been minor setbacks along the way.

The situation is the basis for arguments on the near-term fate of the market. If we do get a major and normal reaction that retraces from one-third to two-thirds of the previous gains, the market is in for some hard thumps.

But is such a reaction necessary. One group in Wall Street says it isn't. They claim that the small and frequent dips the market has been taking are enough to provide for a readjustment and consolidation without a major reverse.

60 Stocks Gain
This week The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $1.50 and stood at $120.00, a new high for the year and the best since April 26 of 1930.

On March 11, the average broke into new high ground for 1954, and in each of the five weeks since then it has established new highs for the year.

On Monday the market held unchanged at the 1954 high established the previous week.

Tuesday brought a resumption of the rise with the railroads in the lead. After the close, the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago lowered its discount rate to 1 1/2 per cent from 1 3/4 per cent, a new sign of continued easy money.

That undoubtedly was a factor in the advance on Wednesday in which most major divisions participated.

Reaches New High
Thursday was expected to be a sluggish session because of the approaching three-day holiday over Good Friday. But it wasn't. A lot of irregularly was encountered, but the market advanced nevertheless to another new high for the year.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

U. S. Steel up 1/4 at 45 on 136-900 shares, RKO Pictures unchanged at 6 1/4, New York Central up 1/4 at 21 1/2, St. Regis Paper up 1/4 at 25 1/4, and International Telephone up 1/4 at 17 1/4.

The five most active issues this week on the American Stock Exchange were:

Webb & Knapp up 1/4 at 1 1/4 on 255,900 shares, Merrill Petroleum up 1/4 at 8, Eureka Corp. up 3/16 at 1, New Idria Mining unchanged at 1 1/2, and Pantepec Oil off 1/4 at 6.

Three Burglaries

chine was not touched. Entrance was made apparently with a "cross-cutter" by means of which a round circle was cut in the window glass and pushed through, enabling the thief to reach in and unlock the window.

Found Hiding Place
Ashdown said he had no money in the till, having removed it and hidden it away. The hiding place was discovered, however, as the thieves "ransacked" desk, shelves and counter.

He said things had been "pushed and shoved" around and "messed up." Curiously enough, boxes of cigars on the shelves had apparently been removed and placed on the floor so carefully that not a cigar was dropped, which appeared strange to Ashdown, considering the way the office had been littered during the search.

Dr. Israel Golstein, president of the American Jewish Congress, said in a Passover message that the feast, to Jews, is a 5,000-year-old rite, commemorating the brave free spirit which dominates their lives and thinking.

Although the Holy Land itself is torn with Jewish-Arab tension, church bells will call worshippers to service as usual on Easter in old Jerusalem, scene of the crucifixion and resurrection.

Across the United States, hundreds of thousands of worshippers will attend outdoor or indoor sunrise services. A number of the outdoor services, mostly Protestant or non-denominational, will be on hill or mountain tops.

In a traditional gay note, women will don their new finery. The weather man promises "ideal" conditions for New York's annual "Easter Parade" on 5th avenue.

NBC-TV will televise on its network scenes from Park avenue at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel from 12 noon to 1 p. m., but none of the networks planned any telecasts of the 5th avenue procession.

They were mindful of criticism they received two years ago that the 5th avenue TV pickup was turned into a commercial spectacle by publicity-minded people pushing into camera range to advertise various wares.

What is claimed to be the biggest Easter egg in the world, 12 1/2 feet long and nine feet wide, is on Minden, Neb., known as the "Christmas City" because of its brilliant lighting at Yuletide, is branching out this year with an Easter lighting display expected to rival the Christmas show.

In Washington, three military sunrise services are scheduled—by the army, in gardens at the Walter Reed Medical Center; by the navy, on grounds of the Naval Medical Center; and by the air force, at Bolling Field.

AWOL Gives Self Up

Berlin, April 17 (AP)—Sgt. Eddie J. Brown of Cleveland, O., has turned himself in to U. S. Army authorities here after more than three years in the Soviet zone, the army announced today. Headquarters said Brown, 33, had been absent without leave from his unit in Munich since Jan. 15, 1951. He told investigators he spent the period of his absence in the Russian zone. The army said he returned voluntarily. Brown is being held by military police pending disposition of his case.

Leswick's sudden shot, through a tangle of players, smashed the comeback hopes and gave the Red Wings their sixth Stanley Cup championship. It also capped a brilliant season which saw them capture their sixth straight National Hockey League title, an unprecedented feat.

"Sure, I was scared in the overtime," said Tommy Ivan, the Red Wings' dapper little coach. "I thought the red light was never going to go on for us. The Canadiens kept getting stronger and stronger."

Leswick's winning tally cut off a comeback which saw Montreal square the best-of-seven series at three games apiece after being down 3 to 1.

and paying out in dividends. Each of the hundreds of stocks listed on various exchange must, of course, be judged on their own merits, not on what the stock market as a whole is doing.

In the middle of last September, the stock market hit the low of the year. In the following seven months to date, the market has gone up a little more than 20 per cent as measured by The Associated Press average of 60 stocks.

No major reaction has taken place during that time. There have been minor setbacks along the way.

That situation is the basis for arguments on the near-term fate of the market. If we do get a major and normal reaction that retraces from one-third to two-thirds of the previous gains, the market is in for some hard times.

But is such a reaction necessary. One group in Wall Street says it isn't. They claim that the small and frequent dips the market has been taking are enough to provide for a readjustment and consolidation without a major reverse.

60 Stocks Gain
This week The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $1.50 and stood at $120.00, a new high for the year and the best since April 26 of 1930.

On March 11, the average broke into new high ground for 1954, and in each of the five weeks since then it has established new highs for the year.

On Monday the market held unchanged at the 1954 high established the previous week.

Tuesday brought a resumption of the rise with the railroads in the lead. After the close, the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago lowered its discount rate to 1 1/2 per cent from 1 3/4 per cent, a new sign of continuing easy money.

That undoubtedly was a factor in the advance on Wednesday in which most major divisions participated.

Reaches New High
Thursday was expected to be a sluggish session because of the approaching three-day holiday over Good Friday. But it wasn't. A lot of irregularly was encountered, but the market advanced nevertheless to another new high for the year.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:
U. S. Steel up 1/4 at 45 on 136-900 shares, RKO Pictures unchanged at 6 1/4, New York Central off 1/4 at 21 1/2, St. Regis Paper up 1/4 at 25 1/4, and International Telephone up 1/4 at 17 1/4.

Found Hiding Place
Ashdown said he had no money in the till, having removed it and hidden it away. The hiding place was discovered, however, as the thieves "ransacked" desk, shelves and counter.

He said things had been "pushed and shoved" around and "messed up." Curiously enough, boxes of cigars on the shelves had apparently been removed and placed on the floor so carefully that not a cigar was dropped, which appeared strange to Ashdown, considering the way the office had been littered during the search.

Dr. Israel Golstein, president of the American Jewish Congress, said in a Passover message that the feast, to Jews, "is a 5,000-year-old rite, commemorating the brave free spirit which dominates their lives and thinking."

Although the Holy Land itself is torn with Jewish-Arab tension, church bells will call worshippers to service as usual on Easter in old Jerusalem, scene of the crucifixion and resurrection.

Across the United States, hundreds of thousands of worshippers will attend outdoor or indoor sunrise services. A number of the outdoor services, mostly Protestant or non-denominational, will be on hill or mountain tops.

In a traditional gay note, women will don their new finery. The weather man promises "ideal" conditions for New York's annual "Easter Parade" on 5th avenue.

NBC-TV will televise on its network scenes from Park avenue at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel from 12 noon to 1 p. m., but none of the networks planned any telecasts of the 5th avenue procession.

They were mindful of criticism they received two years ago that the 5th avenue TV pickup was turned into a commercial spectacle by publicity-minded people pushing into camera range to advertise various wares.

Wizard of Locks Doesn't Recall His 'Toughest' Job

By JOHN A. CRAWFORD, JR.

For 40 years Harry C. VanAken has been helping people open locks.

He's opened everything from trunks to jails in his time. Kind of letting up a little nowadays though. "Busy as I want to be," he says. "Don't want to do too much any more."

About the only jobs he will take now outside the shop are "bank jobs." Otherwise he's kind of slacking off.

According to the slender, blue-eyed lock wizard, whose shop is located at 707 Broadway, he doesn't know which job was the "toughest."

Can't Name 'Toughest'
"Been so many I don't know which it was. Hard to say."

Taking a cigarette from his pack he smoothed it thoughtfully with his fingers.

Yes, he was born and reared in Kingston. Been in his present location since 1914, in the same block since 1936. There are more than 700 different kinds of keys and he can make a duplicate of any of them.

On the wall behind him hung hundreds of key blanks of every size and shape, including one huge fellow that looked like a "relic." VanAken explained that it was a blank from which a key could be made for local jails. He thought he wouldn't go into too much detail about that, however.

Can Open Any Lock
Yes, he can open "any kind of lock," he replied to a question. "Usually the trouble when you can't open a lock is people won't pay enough to have it opened. You can open them if they want them opened." He explained that some of them take a lot of time.

VanAken was tinkering with the tumblers of a car lock. He pointed out it wasn't necessary for him to go into the field—that the lock could be brought to him.

He has opened untold cars,

doors, safes, vaults, deposit boxes, etc. How many locks do you open in a year, do you figure, Mr. VanAken?

"No idea," came the reply.

He turns to a small grinding machine and tools a key "blank." About 10 seconds elapsed.

"Plenty of them, I guess." He means, plenty of locks.

"You say you're from The Freeman?" he asked the reporter.

"Yes, sir."

Opened Freeman Safes
"I opened two safes for them down there."

"You mean recently?" we asked.

"Well, I opened the big one when Jay was living." He meant the late Jay E. Klock, former Freeman editor and publisher, 1891-1936. "A short time ago they had another case and I took care of that, too."

He says when you buy a new car you should take down the key number. Then if it's lost all he has to know is the code number and presto you'll have your key. It takes VanAken about 30 seconds to make a new key.

Do you have any hobbies, Mr. VanAken?

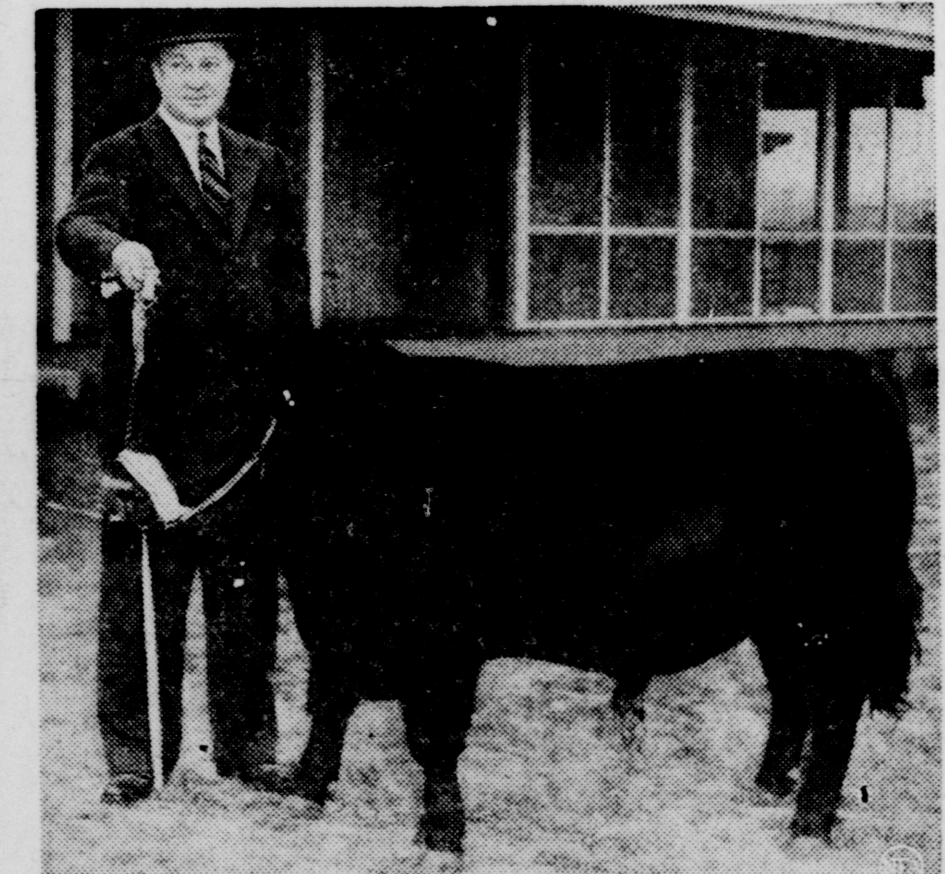

"Don't get much time for hobbies," he says, eyeing the questioner thoughtfully. "Not any more."

Sunny for Easter

New York, April 17 (AP)—Easter Sunday weather for most of the nation will be clear and sunny, the Weather Bureau predicts. The only showers expected are for the northern Great Lakes section. Northeast and northwest states will be cool while warmer weather should hit the central plains states, the bureau says.

Cobalt Intercepted

Varese, Italy, April 17 (AP)—Nine tons of pure cobalt, concealed in a truck under a layer of bricks, were intercepted by treasury guards today near Viggiu, en route from Italy to Switzerland. Police said they believed the load was bound for the other side of the Iron Curtain. Cobalt is a metallic element which has been mentioned as a possible basis for a super-destructive new type of bomb.

BULL (Y) FOR THE DEMOCRATS—Gardner Prince II is shown with his owner, Ralph W. Gardner, in Shelby, N. C. On March 31, the 700-pound Aberdeen Angus bull will make a trip to Washington, D. C., where Rep. Sam Rayburn will auction him off to help raise money for the Women's National Democratic Club.

Mother Reports Man Calling for Murdered Girl

New York, April 17 (AP)—Police were alerted early today for a well-dressed man who appeared at the home of Marion Brown and asked to "see" the 17-year-old waitress, stabbed to death nine days ago.

The girl was stabbed apparently while resisting an attempted rape in the first-floor hallway of her tenement home at 334 East 65th street, where she lived with her mother.

The mother, Mrs. Jennie Brown, 55, said she answered a knock on the door of her sixth-floor walkup flat shortly after midnight last night. When she got to the door, she said, no one was there.

Mrs. Brown said she went back to bed and, a half-hour later, there was another knock at the door.

This time, she said, a well-dressed man about 35 years old asked:

"Is this where Marion Brown lives?"

Mrs. Brown said she replied, "yes."

She quoted the man as saying: "I want to see her."

Mrs. Brown said she tried to "stall" the man while she got her son, Airman 2/C Richard G. Brown, 21, to phone police. The son was flown home from Europe for his sister's funeral on Thursday.

The dead girl's mother said the man, a stranger to her, left after a moment but she was able to give police a description of him.

Since the slaying, police have questioned more than a score of Marion's friends apparently without coming up with any clues to the identity of her murderer.

Gardiner

Gardiner, April 17—The annual meeting of the Ulster County Rural Letter Carriers Association was held April 10 at the Ireland Corners Hotel. The Auxiliary also held its meeting and elected Mrs. John Waterman, president; Mrs. Percy Gazlay, vice-president and Mrs. Floyd McKinstry, secretary-treasurer.

The spring dinner meeting of the Rural Carriers of the Delaware-Hudson District was held April 10 at the Ireland Corners Hotel. Carriers were present from Ulster, Sullivan, Rockland and Orange counties. A talk was given by the Rev. T. F. Cooper, chaplain of the Wallkill Medium Security Prison.

Czech Found Alive

Perth, Australia, April 17 (AP)—Jaroslav Renza, a 35-year-old Czech, was found alive today after being lost for 11 foodless and almost waterless days in arid, near-desert west Australian country. Police and native trackers followed his footprints 150 miles before they found him, exhausted but still struggling on. His only water sources during his ordeal were dew and a little rain which fell one night. Renza is in a Perth hospital, where doctors say he has an even chance of recovery.

Blaze Destroys Guest Bungalow Near Ellenville

A three-room guest bungalow on the Sunrise Manor Hotel property a mile west of Ellenville was destroyed by fire this morning shortly after midnight.

State police said the fire apparently started near a gas heater in the building which had been rented to weekend guests. No one was injured, according to the report.

The property, located on the Ulster Heights road, is owned by Dykman and Kramer of Ulster Heights, troopers said. Names of the occupants, said to be three New York city residents, were not immediately available, but all escaped unharmed.

The Ellenville Fire Department fought the blaze. No estimate of the amount of damage has been made, troopers said.

BUT HOW MUCH WOULD IT COST TO REPLACE IT?

The average home owner today carries only 40% enough fire insurance. He's thinking backward to what his property cost, instead of forward to what it would cost to REPLACE IT.

Face the facts, your home or place of business (and contents) may burn tonight. Is your fire insurance big enough to enable you to start to rebuild and refurnish or restock tomorrow?

Quit kidding yourself that you won't have a fire or that you are fully protected. It's no fun to be half-ruined.

Wizard of Locks Doesn't Recall His 'Toughest' Job

By JOHN A. CRAWFORD, JR.

For 40 years Harry C. VanAken has been helping people open locks.

He's opened everything from trunks to jails in his time. Kind of letting up a little nowadays though. "Busy as I want to be," he says. "Don't want to do too much any more."

About the only jobs he will take now outside the shop are "bank jobs." Otherwise he's kind of slacking off.

According to the slender, blue-eyed lock wizard, whose shop is located at 707 Broadway, he doesn't know which job was the "toughest."

Can't Name 'Toughest'

"Been so many I don't know which it was. Hard to say."

Taking a cigarette from his pack he smoothed it thoughtfully with his fingers.

Yes, he was born and reared in Kingston. Been in his present location since 1911, in the same block since 1936. There are more than 700 different kinds of keys and he can make a duplicate of any of them.

On the wall behind him hung hundreds of key blanks of every size and shape, including one huge fellow that looked like a "relic."

VanAken explained that it was a blank from which a key could be made for local jails. He thought he wouldn't go into too much detail about that, however.

Can Open Any Lock

Yes, he can open "any kind of lock," he replied to a question.

"Usually the trouble when you can't open a lock is people won't pay enough to have it opened. You can open them if they want them opened."

He explained that some of them take a lot of time.

VanAken was tinkering with the tumblers of a car lock. He pointed out it wasn't necessary for him to go into the field—that the lock could be brought to him.

He has opened untold cars,

doors, safes, vaults, deposit boxes, etc. How many locks do you open in a year, do you figure, Mr. VanAken?

"No idea," came the reply.

He turns to a small grinding machine and tools a key "blank."

About 10 seconds elapse.

"Plenty of them, I guess." He means, plenty of locks.

"You say you're from The Freeman?" he asked the reporter.

"Yes, sir."

Mother Reports Man Calling for Murdered Girl

New York, April 17 (AP)—Police were alerted early today for a well-dressed man who appeared at the home of Marion Brown and asked to "see" the 17-year-old waitress, stabbed to death nine days ago.

The girl was stabbed apparently while resisting an attempted rape in the first-floor hallway of her tenement home at 334 East 65th street, where she lived with her mother.

The mother, Mrs. Jennie Brown, 55, said she answered a knock on the door of her sixth-floor walkup flat shortly after midnight last night. When she got to the door, she said, no one was there.

Mrs. Brown said she went back to bed and, a half-hour later, there was another knock at the door.

This time, she said, a well-dressed man about 35 years old asked:

"Is this where Marion Brown lives?"

Mrs. Brown said she replied, "yes."

She quoted the man as saying: "I want to see her."

Mrs. Brown said she tried to "stall" the man while she got her son, Airman 2/C Richard G. Brown, 21, to phone police. The son was flown home from Europe for his sister's funeral on Thursday.

The dead girl's mother said the man, a stranger to her, left after a moment but she was able to give police a description of him.

Since the slaying, police have questioned more than a score of Marion's friends apparently without coming up with any clues to the identity of her murderer.
